SITUATION ADMITTED GRAVE

DISPATCHES FROM WASHINGTON TO AMBASSADOR.

London, July 7.—The officials of the foreign office were shown today the dispatch of the Associated Press from Washington Thursday, saying there was almost a deadlock over the modus vivendi fixing the Alaskan boundary, neither side being willing to accept the provisional line proposed by the other.

The officials confirm the contents of the dispatch, acknowledge the situation is grave and say the present outlook is more unsatisfactory than at any time since February.

This is keenly regretted at the foreign office, as it had been thought the negotiations were in a very satisfactory state.

It has been learned by a representative of the Associated Press that United States Ambassador Choate received this morning dispatches from Washington regarding the negotiations.

THE STATE BAR ASSOCIATION.

LAWYERS OF INDIANA ARE IN INDIANAPOLIS.

William Wirt Howe, of New Orleans, Discusses "Legal Ethics"—Other Speakers.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 7.—At the second day's session of the State Bar association, the chief speaker was William Wirt Howe, of New Orleans, who spoke on "Legal Ethics." He said:

"It is not necessary to decide what may be the true data or real basis of ethics in general or of legal ethics in particular. Some persons may ask, 'What is the use of telling us about such matters?' We know the difference between right and wrong, and do not require any specific suggestions on this subject.' Such, however, is not the verdict of the most intelligent men on these questions. A very bright poet has said that

" 'Evil is wrought
By want of thought
As well as want of heart.'

Thereby stating a great truth, that right doing is very largely a result of careful attention and reflection as to what right doing may be under the special circumstances of a given case. When we are admonished to 'cease to do evil and learn to do well,' it is necessarily implied that there is such a thing as learning in the region of ethics."

The speaker then divided his subjects into two parts, first a consideration of the intellectual conscience in professional work, and secondly, a consideration of the moral conscience.

Following Sainte Deuve and Matthew Arnold, he contended that there is "an intellectual conscience which enjoins us, as professional men, to do not only what we are merely bound to do, but to do it in the best and most artistic manner. We ought to exhibit that genius which has been defined as a capacity for taking infinite pains. If such diligence is needed in music and painting and such like ornamental things, is it not as much needed in a profession that concerns the fortunes and perhaps the liberty or even the life of a client?

"But there is also what we call the moral conscience, which in general estimation is considered of greater concern and embraces the chief domain of legal ethics. This moral conscience is just as binding upon judges and courts as it is upon lawyers."

The practice of levying assessments on candidates for judicial election was mentioned and denounced as a vicious system and one that easily tends to dishonor the judicial office.

John T. Dye, of Indianapolis, spoke on "The Extent and Limits of Legislative Control Over the Freedom of Contract."

STREAMING SKIES

AND LEAKING TENTS DO NOT DETER ENDEAVORS.

MORNING SERVICE IN RAIN.

CANVAS PAVILIONS WERE NO PROTECTION.

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE AND POLYGAMY DISCUSSED.

Detroit, Mich., July 7.—"Showers of Blessing" and "There's Sunshine in My Soul Today" were the favorite hymns sung by Christian Endeavorers this morning en route to the "quiet hour" in Tent Endeavor. However abundant the spiritual showers may have been, the physical rains were certainly copious enough to drench everything in sight and the utter incapability of the Endeavor Tents to exclude rain was fully demonstrated.

Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, leader of the "quiet hour," and H. G. Smyth, the New York Gospel singer, stood on the speaker's platform, hats on, directing the proceedings, shielding themselves with umbrellas from the streams of water that dribbled through the big sheet iron resonator overhead.

Tent Endeavor was a broad and long expanse of shining umbrellas. Scarcely anybody found a dry spot to sit upon and it rained inside the tent almost as hard, and in places harder, than out of doors.

The long decorative bands of red and white sagged and drooped like sponges and the banners all looked tired.

The audience appeared large enough to fill the tent, but it was mostly umbrellas. For a long time the muffled roar of falling rain on the roof precluded hope of speaking or audible prayer, so the people sang instead, led by four brass wind instruments sticking out from more umbrellas on the stage. After a time there was a short, partial cessation of the downpour and the "quiet hour" was carried out amid surroundings which made the title a misnomer.

Hundreds of young people braved the elements and appeared at the grounds for the main 10 o'clock gatherings, but postponement, for the time being at least, was inevitable.

The rain practically ceased soon after 10 o'clok, the tent seats became practically dried out, and the programs proceeded with both the great main tents comfortably filled.

Today's speaking was not wholly from the platforms. The humblest delegates in the audiences had their chances as against the pulpit orators on the stage. They promptly improved all opportunities given by the open parliament to shout out their experiences in religious work and their plans for future efforts toward the regeneration of the world.

Tent Endeavor wa sthe scene of a "practical school of methods," addresses alternating with open parliaments in bringing out consenses of opinions and past and prospective achievements.

Detroit, Mich., July 7.—Soon after the break of dawn today the trustees of the United society of Christian Endeavor gathered in the Hotel Cadillac to discuss several matters left undetermined at Wednesday's meeting. The most important of these was the consideration of a protest from the ministerial alliance of Toledo against the opening of the gates of the Ohio centennial on Sunday.

After some discussion and contrary to the expressed wishes of the Toledo representatives, who were present, a general resolution was authorized, protesting in the name of the Christian Endeavor society, against opening the gates of any national exposition or fair on the Sabbath

Another resolution was authorized protesting against the seating of Congressman-elect Brigham H. Roberts, of Utah.

Both resolutions were roughly drawn. When completed the text will be submitted to the general convention for adoption.

The trustees consumed some time in the discussion of matters concerning the 1900 convention at London, and the methods and rates of ocean transportation, but adjourned without definite action.

There is understood to be a plan under consideration for the chartering of several large ocean steamships to carry the American Endeavorers to England.

Secretary Baer says the idea is to make a straight fare for all parts of the ships and have the second cabins and steerages fitted up as nearly as possible on an equality with the first cabin staterooms and also allow the passengers full privileges of the upper decks and provide them with all possible conveniences

BIG JOB AHEAD.

Contractors Moellering & Co. have thirty-eight blocks of street to complete this fall in addition to the pavement on South Calhoun street, where four squares were laid in four weeks. The board of works believes that the contractors will proceed faster on streets where there is no track and assert confidently that the work will be completed this week.

STEWART STONE PLANT STAYS

HAS BEEN PURCHASED BY FRANK CARLUCCI.

Pennsylvania Contractor Will Maintain the Works on Fairfield Avenue.

The completion of the new court house by Contractors James Stewart & Co. will not mean the removal of their large stone cutting plant on Fairfield avenue. It will remain among the industries of Fort Wayne and will doubtless give employment to from fifty to seventy-five men, nearly all of whom are home workmen.

The Messrs. Stewart have sold the plant to Frank Carlucci, a prominent stone contractor of Scranton, Pa., who has placed Peter Holster, of this city, in charge. Mr. Carlucci has a number of extensive eastern contracts in which Bedford stone is used. He proposes to ship the stone from the quarries to Fort Wayne, where it will be trimmed and dressed and then reshipped to the east. How long the plant will be maintained here cannot be definitely stated, but present contracts insure its continuance for at least a year, and perhaps longer.

The plant is an extensive one, fully equipped with machinery for all branches of the work. The work on stone for the court house will be completed within a few days, and Mr. Carlucci, the new proprietor, already has several carloads of stone on the way to this city.

THE DOG POISONER AGAIN.

HE PAYS A VISIT TO THF SOUTHEAST PART OF CITY

John Tremmel Reports That Fourteen Canines Have Been Poisoned in Two Days.

The dog poisoner is again at work and as a result of his work Poundmaster John Tremmel reports that within two days no less than fourteen canines have been sent to the "happy hunting grounds." The poisoner's operations this time have been confined to the southeastern portion of the city, principally on Force and South Hanna streets. Wednesday Mr. Tremmel was called to carry away the remains of five dogs which had been poisoned and yesterday he disposed of nine more that had been victims of the poisoner. Some of the dogs were quite valuable and the owners thereof promise to make it very unpleasant for the fiend who administered the deadly poison to their canines. There is no clue to the poisoner, although persons who have lost their valuable dogs are investigating in the hope of uncovering the perpetrator.

WILL BE NO CHANGE.

For several days rumors ave been current to the effect that the firm of DeWald & Co. were contemplating retiring from the retail dry goods business and devoting their exclusive attention to the wholesale trade. To a reporter for The Sentinel this morning R. W. T. DeWald stated that there was absolutely no truth in the rumors. "You may say," said Mr. DeWald, "that there will be no change in the business whatever. Our firm has enjoyed the patronage of the people of Fort Wayne and vicinity for so many years and the retail business is so well established and satisfactory that we have not for a moment contemplated abandoning it. The DeWald store will continue along the lines it has followed for so many years."

Theodore Keyser, of the Jacobs shoe store, will spend Sunday in Chicago.

IN AN EXPLOSION

THE WIFE OF CAPTAIN DICKINS LOST HER LIFE.

A TRAGEDY IN WASHINGTON

THE FUMES OF GASOLINE WERE IGNITED.

HOUSE FRONT BLOWN OUT

MRS. DICKINS WAS A WELL KNOWN WRITER.

Washington, D. C., July 7.—An explosion, followed by fire in the residence of Captain Dickins, of the United States navy, at 10:45 this morning, resulted in the shocking death of Mrs. Dickins. Other persons in the house were severely but not dangerously injured.

The Dickins residence is a handsome three-story brick building on Nineteenth street, directly back of the British embassy and within a few steps of Dupon circle. The first intimation of fire was a low rumble followed by several violent shocks, which blew out the entire third story front of the residence.

The firemen made their way to the third story and among the debris littering the front room found the blackened corpse of a woman. It was the body of Mrs. Dickins. From Joseph Vaughn, a plumber, who, with his assistant, was at work placing a gutter at the rear of the third story roof, it is learned that he and his man were descending a ladder with a lighted melting pot. Vaughn detected the odor of gasoline and warned his man to be careful. As they passed through an open door they saw a woman sprinkling some liquid on the floor. Almost immediately the explosion followed. Vaughn, after the explosion seized the woman and tried to drag her from the place, but was driven back by the flames. He led the rescuers to the place. Mrs Dickins' death was undoubtedly caused by the explosion and she suffered none from the succeeding flames, as Vaughn thinks she was dead when he took hold of her.

Captain Dickins was summoned from the navy department and almost fainted when he reached home and learned of the death of his wife. Captain Dickens is one of the best known officers in the navy and is next to Captain Crowninshield at the head of the bureau of navigation. Mrs. Dickins was an author of some note, one of her best known books being "Around the World in a Man-of-War." She was also a frequent contributor to magazines.

UNCONSCIOUS ON THE STREET

FRED STRONG WAS FOUND THIS MORNING.

Supposed Case of Epilepsy Proves to Be Something Else—A Mysterious Case.

Seated upon a box in front of the grocery store of Coverdale & Archer at 11:30 today Fred Strong was found in an unconscious condition. Strong is a single man about thirty years of age, and his home is in Richland county, Ohio. He has been employed as a marble polisher on the new court house, and boarded at 15 Pearl street.

When found this morning he was taken into the store and as hasty preliminary remedies failed to restore him, the ambulance was called and he was taken to his boarding house. It was believed he was suffering from some form of epilepsy, but Dr. Derbyshire, who was summoned, hastily dispelled that idea.

Dr. Derbyshire says he believes Strong has swallowed some form of opiate, probably laudanum. He was given immediate attention, and late this afternoon the doctor gave the opinion that Strong would recover. The man was not able to make a statement of his case, and for some time resisted all efforts to help him.

BOY HURT IN COLLISION.

Alfred Garmater, a twelve-year-old lad, came to the city from Woodburn today and purchased a bicycle at Marion Black's. He started for a ride this afternoon and at the corner of Calhoun and Washington streets collided with a horse and buggy driven by Angus McPherson. The shaft struck the lad in the groin and lacerated the tissues thereof. He was carried to Dr. English's office and the doctor made an examination, but doesn't consider the injuries at all dangerous now. The lad returned to his home this afternoon.

THE SITUATION IS TERRIBLE.

FLOODED DISTRICTS IN TEXAS NEED HELP.

Thousands to Be taken Care of—The Railroads Have Abandoned All Traffic.

Richmond, Texas July 7.—Never in the history of Richmond were such scenes witnessed as were depicted today. Business is practically suspended.

Many plantations are under water. All trains save those on the Southern Pacific west have been abandoned. Provisions are running low and unless something is done quickly there will be great suffering here within a few days. It is believed there will be at the very least 3,000 to 5,000 persons to feed from this place within a week. Stories of drowning and disasters are coming in constantly, but they cannot be verified, although it is probable that many of them are correct.

The water has reached the river bridge and is dashing between the iron guy rods under it and for the first time the railroad company has stopped all traffic over it.

TRAIN SERVICE ABANDONED.

St. Louis, Mo., July 7.—A special to the Republic from Dallas, Tex., says:

The railroad situation in Texas because of the floods is so much worse than it has been heretofore that the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe has had to abandon its through trains from St. Louis and Kansas City at Dallas and Fort Worth respectively.

The Santa Fe had until last night, by running on a roundabout way, managed to get through to Galveston, but the new washouts in the lower Brazos country stopped even this traffic.

The abandonment of the Santa Fe trains severs the last link of anything like direct connection between Northern and Southern Texas. To reach these points now it is necessary to travel via Shreveport, La.

The flood damages to railroad property in Texas is now conservatively estimated at $3,000,000.

THEY GO ACQUIT.

SLAYERS OF GENERAL LUNA FOUND NOT GUILTY.

TOOK LIFE IN SELF-DEFENSE

AGUINALDO'S PRESTIGE HAS GROWN STRONGER.

LUNA'S FOLLOWERS LOYAL

THE NEWS THAT COMES FROM THE SEAT OF WAR.

Manila, July 7.—7:30 p. m.—The trial, at Cabanatuan, of the slayers of General Luna, the Filipino leader who was assassinated by the guard of Aguinaldo's residence, is ended. The accused were acquitted on the ground of self-defense.

The testimony showed that there was a conspiracy upon the part of Luna and other officers to kill Aguinaldo and make Luna dictator.

Luna's death seems to have strengthened Aguinaldo's leadership for the time. Luna's supporters are now outwardly loyal to Aguinaldo.

CASES WILL BE DISMISSED.

DR. W. C. COLLINS MAKES THE REQUEST.

Writes a Letter to the Prosecuting Attorney Explaining His Position.

The Fort Wayne and Youngstown base ball players will not be prosecuted for playing base ball last Sunday. The prosecuting attorney was prepared to go ahead with the cases, although he was of the opinion that the cases would have to be thrown out on account of defective affidavits. Yesterday a letter was received from W. C. Collins, the dentist who filed the affidavits, requesting Mr. Doughman to dismiss the cases. Here is the letter:

"Fort Wayne, Ind., July 6, 1899—Mr. N. D. Doughman, Prosecuting Attorney, City:—Dear Sir: After fully considering the matter of the prosecution of the base ball players for playing base ball on last Sunday, July 2nd, against which players I made affidavits, which are now pending before Justice Harry F. France, I do not feel that I desire the prosecution to continue upon these affidavits, but desire that the same shall be dismissed. I do not wish to be understood as favoring any violation of the law, nor understood to say that in this instance there was no violation of the law, but prefer to take no active part in these prosecutions. For these reasons I request that you have these cases dismissed and do not prosecute upon the affidavits made by me.

"Very respectfully,
"W. C. Collins."

To a Sentinel reporter this morning Mr. Doughman said the cases would be dismissed when they were called for trial tomorrow afternoon, if not before that time.

The action of Revs. McGaw and Cissell, who yesterday secured copies of affidavits from the proosecuting attorney, indicates that they will not abandon the fight against Sunday base ball, but as to their future methods of prosecution they are reticent.

Sacrificed to Blood Poison.

Those who have never had Blood Poison can not know what a desperate condition it can produce. This terrible disease which the doctors are totally unable to cure, is communicated from one generation to another, inflicting its taint upon countless innocent ones.

Some years ago I was inoculated with poison by a nurse who infected my babe with blood taint. The little one was unequal to the struggle, and its life was yielded up to the fearful poison. For six long years I suffered untold misery. I was covered with sores and ulcers from head to foot, and no language can express my feelings of woe during those long years. I had the best medical treatment. Several physicians successively treated me, but all to no purpose. The mercury and potash seemed to add fuel to the awful flame which was devouring me. I was advised by friends who had seen wonderful cures made by it, to try Swift's Specific. We got two bottles, and I felt hope again revive in [illegible] for health and happiness [illegible] a new start, and a complete [illegible] was the result. S. S. The Old Soldiers had rather an easy time winning the first game of the present series from the Fort Waynes. Swaim was in the box for the Hoosiers and in spite of the fact that he was not feeling well pitched first-class ball. His support, however, was saffron-hued, every one of the quartet of infielders making errors, two each being credited to Glasscock, Babb and Hollingsworth. It was after errors were made that the Old Soldiers generally landed on "Cy's" curves and drove the runs over the rubber. Fort Wayne made enough hits to win the average game, but the high class fielding of the Daytons kept most of the Hoosiers on the bases after they had made hits. Here is the score:

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Fort Wayne and New Castle will play at Exhibition park Sunday and the Shamrocks and Blues will play at Robison park.

Fort Wayne is back in fourth place. Let us hope that the infielders bunched their errors in yesterday's game and will brace up and win the next two.

Brooklyn won a game yesterday after eight consecutive defeats. Bill Dahlen went back to third base and Hugh Jennings is playing shortstop.

Billy Niles is now manager-captain of the Wheelings.

Patsy Tebeau is watching Tim Flood and if the great second baseman keeps up his fine record he may find himself next season playing the bag around which "Cupid" Childs has coverted for so many years.

It is hard to understand how as poor a team as Torreyson had in Fort Wayne could have played such a wonderful game as they did with Toledo. The Furniture Makers might have won, too, had Collars been with them to bat out a run or two.

PFEIFFER & MOSES.

A WELL KNOWN GROCERY UNDER A NEW NAME.

E. S. Moses, of Decatur, Forms a Partnership With John N. Pfeiffer.

Pfeiffer & Moses is now the firm name of the well-known rocery and meat market of John N. Pfeiffer, No. 40-44 West Berry street, Mr. Pfeiffer having sold a half interest in the business to Mr. E. S. Moses, of Decatur, Ind. Mr. Moses comes to Fort Wayne with the highest recommendations of ability and financial standing, and withal is a most courteous and affable gentleman. Mr. Pfeiffer has conducted the grocery business alone at his present location for a number of years, and has built up for himself a reputation as a hustling, accommodating and strictly honorable young business man. But the strain of the rapidly growing business was too great for him to bear alone, hence the change. Under the new firm the stock will be maintained at the high standard which it has always borne, and will be greatly increased.

But won't get tuk away, I guess
Because we'll all be past the same—

And the boys may think we've had a taste
Of stuff that de suit fit canteens,
We'll make a thunderin lot of noise

Guess mother'd better stay at home
When Jim's train comes, she's sure to cry
And me'bbe faint "I would make Jim feel

Guess mother'd better go along

FUNSTON'S GREAT FEAT

How the Daring Kansan Crossed the Rio Grande.

GRAPHIC STORY OF THE BATTLE.

John T. McCutcheon Tells How the Colonel Won a Star on His Shoulder Straps For His Achievement. Daring Deed of Two Swimmers—A Desperate Running Fight.

Colonel Funston's plan of crossing the Rio Grande at night on rafts a mile west of the railroad bridge and flanking the insurgents with an enfilading fire was not carried out, owing to a few things which happened on April 27. Colonel Funston selected 120 men from the regiment to go with him. Twenty men were picked from each of Companies G, E, K and M and ten from each of Companies L, B, A and F.

Early the following morning the artillery was hurried forward from the Bagbag, says John T. McCutcheon, the Chicago Record's correspondent, writing from Manila under date of April 29. It was given out that the day would be employed in placing the new pieces and that the following day, April 28, would see the grand attack made.

Major Young got his three guns of the Utah battery placed under a nipa shack about 150 yards east of the freighthouse and about 400 yards from the insurgent bombproofs. The two Gatlings that came from the armored car were mounted at the same position—one on each side of the 3.2 inch guns. The Utah revolving cannon was moved down with Flemming on the river bank west of the track, and one of the 3.2 inch Sixth artillery guns was placed in the freighthouse

The minute the insurgents saw these preparations they opened with their cannon and machine gun and all their infantry. It was afterward learned that Luna had 5,000 men with him—3,500 armed with rifles and 1,500 with bolos. As a consequence the work of advancing our artillery was hot and dangerous, and the American infantry was kept busy raking the tops of the insurgent trenches with volleys. The engagement became general, and Funston determined to try crossing the river in daylight, following the same lines as were laid out the night before.

About the same troops were selected and the line went down the river only about a third of a mile and in plain view from the bridge. From the freighthouse the farther bank could be seen, but not the American bank, for there was a slight bend in the river which shut from view the spot where Funston was to start across.

At a few minutes before 11 o'clock two men were seen from the freighthouse swimming out into the river toward the insurgent trenches. These men were White and Trembley of Company B—naked and unarmed and carrying a coil of rope, one end of which was secured on the southern bank. A fearful rifle fusillade at the same time was directed from the 120 men remaining in the trenches opposite, while the riflemen in the freighthouse raked the same position with a diagonal fire. From farther up toward the bridge the enemy was vainly trying to kill the two swimmers. Bullets were dropping in the water around them, and those who watched from the freighthouse were in a fever of suspense as the two men slowly neared the opposite shore. The noise at this time was deafening. The freighthouse was roaring like the sound of a barrel of exploding fire crackers, and the 3 inch gun, with its muzzle poked through a hole in the brick wall, was being fired as rapidly as possible. Major Young's three guns and the Gatlings were thundering off to the right. All of the Montana and Kansas men had crept up to where they could pour an effective and terrifying volley fire across the river

After what seemed an age the two swimmers reached the insurgent bank and seemed to be looking around for something to which the rope might be attached. Their was absolutely nothing, and they crept cautiously up to the breastworks, where a strong upright post was standing. A line of insurgents was seen darting out of the trenches and running crouchingly off toward the railway. White and Trembley dropped down and waited. No sound came from behind the trench, and they threw a handful of earth over to see whether a movement would betray the presence of others. A few more natives hurriedly ran off to the right and disappeared in the trees, evidently terrified to find the Americans across the river. Then the rope was tied to the upright and the fire of our troops was turned farther up the river. Two more men with White and Trembley's rifles and clothes, as well as their own rifles, started across in a small canoe, but the canoe capsized, losing the extra clothes and rifles, and the occupants of the boat were barely able to reach the insurgent side safely.

Closely following this canoe came a raft with Colonel Funston and several soldiers. Their appearance drew a hot but wild fire from the insurgents, who were now apparently panic stricken at the thought of a flanking force closing in on them. The last two rafts were hurried over, and with this force, about 50 men in all, Colonel Funston began advancing along the beach, keeping up a steady enfilading fire, while the rafts were pulled back for the men remaining on the American shore. At the point where the little stream flows into the Rio Grande Funston stopped and fired into the insurgent trenches until he could see them getting out and retreating. This stream, though narrow, was deep and a crossing was hard to effect. The Americans moved up the bank, looking for a place to get over, when a strong force of insurgents, probably 200 in number, began a fierce fire on them from farther up the railway, where they had retreated. At the same time the insurgents opened up with a Maxim machine gun, and it seemed for a minute that the little group of Kansas men would be annihilated. Colonel Funston tells of this minute being the most exciting and desperate of the whole undertaking, and he confesses that his heart sank when he heard that machine gun. It was far to the right of the 200 men who were firing from up the railway and was probably posted in a culvert that ran under the railway track about 100 yards from the bridge. Under this cross fire Funston hurriedly drew his men back from the stream until they were protected in the clump of bamboos. The Maxim was being directed in a vertical arc, like a pumphandle, instead of horizontally, which would have been deadly to the Kansas men.

After the Maxim had ceased Funston and his men rushed again to the small stream and could see that the insurgents were fleeing wildly to the rear and following the line of the railway. A small banco was found, and the colonel, with Captain Orwig and eight soldiers, quickly crossed the stream and rushed like demons, yelling and shooting, up through the bombproofs on the heels of the stampeded insurgents. Simultaneously our soldiers began to edge across the bridge, using the railway of the footpath as a support. They were absolutely exposed, and their progress was slow, but nearly 100 were got across in this way. A number of us who had hurried forward from the freighthouse thought the fight was over, for the insurgents had all retreated, and there was only a scattering fire in front as an occasional blue coated figure darted into view along the track. Over on the left the Kansas men who had crossed the river were firing at the retreating insurgents. A mile and a half up the track was the railway station of Apalit, where a train with two locomotives was standing.

Then suddenly in the midst of all the relaxation and quiet that follow a brisk engagement went up the cry: "They're coming back! They're advancing in skirmish lines!"

The situation was extremely bad. Only about 200 soldiers were across the river. It would require a long time to get a big force across, and it would be a deadly thing to move a solid line of men along the exposed bridge after the insurgents had approached near enough to sweep it with their volleys. There then ensued a wild hurry and excitement. The troops on the south side could not fire without endangering those already across, and the same cause prevented the use of Gatlings or artillery.

Away over in the broad field to the left, about 2,000 yards from the bridge, was a long line of men in dark clothes, slowly advancing in skirmish formation. Behind the lines were men in squads, and along it, back and forth, rode an officer on a black horse, frantically giving orders. It was instantly assumed that the insurgents had discovered the weakness of the force that had flanked them and were going to attempt to regain possession of the bridge and its defenses before a greater force could be got across.

The insurgents were about 800 strong and were rapidly drawing nearer. From the fact that they wore dark khaki suits a momentary doubt arose whether or not they might be American soldiers who had crossed the river below in great numbers and were coming in toward the railway. This doubt was immediately dispelled by the insurgents opening fire on the Kansas men in the woods to the left and on the soldiers thronging across the bridge.

Generals MacArthur and Wheaton, with their excited staffs, came up to the bridge and instantly ordered every available man to get over the bridge as fast as possible and then sent orderlies flying away for re enforcements. The insurgents who had retreated on the right of the track now began firing from the woods near the town of Apalit, and the bridge became a most uncomfortable spot. Still, the soldiers edged across, and as fast as they reached the other shore they were sent out to form a line beyond the bridge. The Kansas men in the woods who had crossed with Funston, but who had not come up to the railway, were in great danger of being cut off by the advancing line of insurgents, but they held their ground and greeted the approaching enemy with regular volleys.

It was apparent that the insurgents were rattled and were not eager to advance, for at every American volley the line would drop and the insurgent officer would ride back and forth urging them to advance. Twice they arose and each time broke up, some retreating, while the officers vainly endeavored to hold them firm. After several attempts the whole line crumbled and beat a hasty retreat to the left, disappearing in the woods. Already a skirmish line of Montanas was deploying in the ricefield on the right, and a line of Kansans was deploying on the left. As they marched forward toward the Apalit station a long running fight, as desperate and spirited as any action of the day, resulted. The insurgents gave way stubbornly before the crashing volleys that our soldiers poured into them. During this running fight, which covered over a mile, many men were shot, and a great many were overcome by the deadly heat that hung on the ricefields. About 40 insurgents were captured and a large number killed and wounded. Apalit was taken with but little effort, but the insurgents on leaving set fire to the town

Trained to Wriggle.

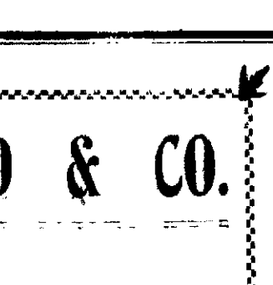
NATURAL COMFORT.



It is said that one can get used to almost anything—if given time. It is certain that one has to get used to a plate in the mouth—even when most perfectly fitted—before it feels really comfortable. That points out briefly one reason why Crown and Bridge work is the most natural method of restoring decayed teeth and replacing lost ones. It takes away the necessity of wearing a plate—and getting used to it—and gives not only the most natural appearance, but the most natural comfort and efficiency to the wearer. The cost is little—compared with this.

A dash of Fruit Juice on Grape Nuts Makes a Fetching Dish.

"You ought to advertise for people to eat fruit juice on Grape Nuts. I like them very much that way. I mix fruit in and eat a sort of fruit pudding, which is very delightful to my palate, and I find the food of a most nourishing character. Since its use I have been relieved of constipation." This was written by a man in Buffalo, N. Y.

A nice fruit juice, such as comes from canned peaches, pears, etc., makes a delicious dish of Grape Nuts, and another favorite is to make a pudding with sultana raisins, such as given in the directions on the package. When a man or woman once eats Grape Nuts he (or she) thereupon joins the Grape Nut army, and never regrets it.

With "Fighting Joe" Wheeler and General Lawton leading charges in the Philippines there will be a new order of hilarity for the rebels when the ball opens again.

Robert Bonner, whose death is announced today, attributed his marvelous success to generous and judicious advertising. He gave the readers of the New York Ledger the best and spent thousands of dollars telling them that it was the best.

On general principles, of course, right-thinking folks will be glad that the assassin who attempted the life of that royal scapegrace, ex-King Milan of Servia, failed in his purpose However, this gladsome feeling will be greatly tempered by reflection that there is neither room nor use on earth for the titled debauchee.

The Muncie young man who has three times entered into arrangements for his marriage with a popular and pretty young lady and three times disappointed the bride-elect as well as the invited guests by failure to put in an appearance at the right time, can probably achieve success by making the sheriff master of ceremonies when the affair is billed to come off again, if the young lady's patience is not worn out.

What a meeting that must have been between Dreyfus and his wife at Rennes after five long years of separation, five long years of suffering, agony and suspense! Surely the whole world rejoiced in sympathy with this devoted and sorely-tried couple, and will rejoice still more when the husband shall be officially vindicated and the triumph of tortured innocence complete. Through all this long agony of shame and suffering Madame Dreyfus has stood by her husband with unshaken faith, unwavering fortitude and devoted love. She has shown heroic courage throughout the frightful ordeal which has left no trace of bitterness in her lofty soul. She bears no hatred toward her husband's persecutors, but, for herself, desires all the evil done to be forgiven and forgotten in his vindication. Here is an example of angelic Christian charity given by a Jewess that is touching and impressive to witness. But France has a duty to perform in this matter, and clearing the innocent is but part of it. She must punish the guilty and punish them condignly before justice can be satisfied. As for repairing the wrong done to Dreyfus, that is out of the question. It is irreparable.

Sir Julian Pauncefote thought it worth while to propose in the peace conference that the name of the body of arbitrators which that body hopes to establish should be changed from "tribunal" to "court," so that its title now is the "permanent court of arbitration." The change is in the interest of euphony, but the British commissioner probably was not thinking of that. He knew how much attention is given to phraseology in European diplomacy and that in its ears "court" has a more weighty sound than "tribunal." Consequently, "court" it is. Europe is better pleased and as for America, it doesn't care for the name, so there be the thing itself

HELLER WON EASILY.

PUSHED HIS WHITE FLYER ACROSS THE TAPE IN THE LEAD.

He Eclipsed All Previous Efforts On His Barnes White Flyer and Won All Three Races at Robinson Park—Call on Koehlinger.

The large crowd that witnessed the bicycle races at Robison park, Tuesday afternoon, noticed that the man who went across the tape first, in each of the three events, rode a beautiful white machine. The word went out and spread like wild fire that Lee Heller, the well known rider, was mounted on a Barnes White Flyer and was eclipsing all previous efforts made by him on other machines during his racing career He showed his heels to the other contestants and won easily on the easy running Barnes. There are seventy-five other riders of this year's Barnes White Flyer in the city who will also vouch for its easy running qualities, durability, superior workmanship and general beauty. The best riders are all mounted on the Barnes, as they know what is the best.

It takes the best wheel to make the best showing on the street, road or track and for the prettiest, as well as the strongest constructed, yet the lightest machine in the market, all prospective buyers should visit H. G. Koehlinger, at 31 East Columbia street, and thoroughly inspect the popular Barnes White Flyer. In buying that machine you will never be dissatisfied and you can rest assured in having one you have the best.

Anybody who attended the play last night and went away dissatisfied, would certainly be a grumbler of the first water. "My Uncle From Japan" was the play, and the company fully sustained the reputation they had made on previous occasions The comedy is very funny, and the Lennon Co. brought out all the fun in the piece. The specialties went big and Mr. Sanders made the hit of his life with his topical songs.—Elkhart Daily Truth.

J. F. Schell Declares His Plans Were of a Kind to Prosper—Cross-Examination.

The cross-examination of J. F. Schell in the bankruptcy actions yesterday developed a very animated tilt between the witness and the attorneys. The sharp discussion arose over the election of a new president at the time of Mr. Schell's retirement. Schell stated that he wanted to retire to become president of the state bank which was to have been organized, and for the additional reason that his health was impaired and he needed a rest. At this time, he said, Mr. O'Rourke sought the position of president and manager. The witness testified that some of the stockholders were opposed to Mr. O'Rourke's election, and Mr. Porter, in particular, declared he would not support him. Schell says he used his influence in Mr. O'Rourke's behalf and succeeded in having him elected. This Mr O'Rourke flatly contradicted. He had previously stated that he was induced to accept the presidency reluctantly at the request of some of the directors who were clients of the law firm of Robertson & O'Rourke Schell further testified that the directors who opposed the election of Mr. O'Rourke urged that he owned no stock in the association, and that Mr. O'Rourke agreed to take stock in order to qualify him for the position. Witness said that after a conversation with Mr. O'Rourke, C. E. Everett informed him (Schell) that Mr. O'Rourke was angered at the suggestion that he be made assistant manager; that he did not want that position; that he wanted to be president and manager; witness had never asked Mr. O'Rourke to be president; furthermore Mr. O'Rourke had asked to have the words "and manager" inserted after the word "president" in the records.

There was another sharp exchange of words over an alleged statement of Schell's to O'Rourke. The latter had stated that Schell informed him, at the time of the official change, that the total indebtedness of the company was $25,000. Schell insisted that he never made that statement; that on the contrary, he had informed Mr. O'Rourke and Mr. Keplinger at the time of the change secured the indebtedness was between $43,000 and $53,000. He says Mr. O'Rourke and Mr. Keplinger both stated then that if the indebtedness was not over $25,000 they could carry on the business for five years.

Schell was asked whether he had not informed Jackson Valentine, a week or two before the crash, that the company's debts were not over $300.

"I never said it," was the reply. "It was my impression that at the time of the change of presidency the total indebtedness of the company, secured and unsecured, was about $150,000. Of this the directors were individually responsible for between $40,000 and $50,000."

While the questions concerning the succession to the presidency were asking, Schell was asked:

"You kept your eyes open pretty much at that period, didn't you?"

"I hardly ever slept," was the reply. "It was my business to keep them open then. I needed to."

Questioned as to the methods alleged to have been in vogue of diverting money borrowed for the association to the use of individuals, Mr. Schell said:

"Any money borrowed on notes signed by the directors was for the J. F. Schell Loan and Investment company and was not placed to anyone's individual credit. It was all placed to the credit of the company."

When the question of the loan of $25,000 from the Colonial National bank of Cleveland came up Schell said that the note given the bank as security was dictated by Colonel Robertson. The association had its own form of notes, but the special one was made out so that the Cleveland bank people could have their choice of forms.

In his re-direct examination Schell told of the hopes of the directors, the method of subscribing stock and the conditions on which money was invested. Mr. Schell said the directors were to get 10 per cent. on their stock for a term of five years, in addition to their salaries.

At the time of the crash, he said, he valued his home at $6,500 and his farm at $3,000. He has lost all.

He told of the new bank which he was organizing and to promote which he had first decided to quit the presidency of the investment company. He said he had already had between $60,000 and $70,000 of stock pledged and subscriptions were still coming in. Articles of incorporation had been drawn up, signed by eighteen names, among them the names of the directors of the J. F. Schell Loan and Investment company. Schell was to have been president of the new bank, which he expected to get started within four months after he retired from the presidency.

Mr. Schell's testimony was given without the slightest hesitation at any point and at times he grew very emphatic. It is evident that he yet retains the sublimest confidence in the practicability of his plans and stated Thursday that if all had sustained him in the business he could have built it up into a substantial concern of monumental proportions.

HEARING THE DEFENSE.

Referee Chapin's examination of the proceedings in bankruptcy against the supposed directors of the Schell Loan and Investment company was resumed this morning and at noon the attorneys for the petitioners rested their case. The defense is being heard this afternoon.

Col. R. S. Robertson took the witness stand this morning and testified that he knew nothing of the actual condition of the company at the time the Cleveland loan was made; that in December last he advised them as to articles of association for a new bank but had no further conferences with them; that just prior to the examination of the books by Messrs. Keplinger, O'Rourke and Everett, Schell came to his office and in the presence of Linden declared that the company did not owe a dollar that it did not have assets to pay, and said if they had $6,000 in cash at that time it would pay all; that as the investigation proceeded they would inform Schell as to what they found; soon found a shortage of $20,000 to $25,000 of unsecured debts; they would telephone to Schell at his home and his invariable response was: "That is so; I overlooked that, but that is all there is." Witness said the presidency was not sought by Mr. O'Rourke and he did not solicit any men to vote for him. Linden suggested that he (Robertson) take the presidency, but he declined to do it. Mr. Robertson denied any knowledge of an attempt to alienate the confidence or affection of these directors from Schell, but defended him in more than one direction.

George Wilhelm, a street grading contractor, testified that for two years past Hiram Porter has been connected with him in making these contracts.

Kites to Unveil a Statue.

When the statue of Benjamin Franklin in front of the Philadelphia postoffice is unveiled numerous kites of huge size will be attached to the canvas covering of the statue and through the agency of these kites and by means of intricate electrical appliances the statue will be unveiled without any apparent human or mechanical assistance. Justus C. Strawbridge, who bears the entire cost of the statue, $17,200, and will present it to the city, conceived the idea several years ago at a dinner, after listening to a speech in which it was pointed out that there was no memorial bronze to Franklin in that city.

Butterflies.

Every one has seen the little yellow butterflies that settle down in swarms upon the country roads in the summer time, but very few of our little friends know in what great families they travel nor what great distances they go. Flocks of them have been seen fluttering overhead, all going in the same direction, that covered 16 miles and took three days in passing, and they have been seen far out at sea, where they fairly cover the decks and rigging of the ships.

A Severe Setback.

"No, it will be several Sundays before I care to hear Rev Mr Dakter preach." "Why so?" "He has just returned from a fishing trip and it will take him that long to get back his veracity."

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, July 7.—Buoyant strength in Pennsylvania and New York Central lifted the market at the opening the former stock jumping 2½c on buying of 2,800 shares and the latter 1½c on 2,000 shares, due to the rumored combination of the two roads.

The general railroad list responded rather feebly and showed a downward tendency after the opening, Burlington dropping ⅛c. Sugar, Manhattan and some of the other industrial specialties advanced about a point or over.

The opening demand for Pennsylvania and New York Central was soon satisfied and yesterday's realizing was resumed. The unloading process was pursued with vigor, but the general demand being light, values melted away rapidly as the offerings came out.

Sugar, Brooklyn Transit, Metropolitan Street Railway, Tennessee Coal, Manhattan and the Tobacco stocks dipped from 1c to 2½c.

Among the railways Pennsylvania, New York Central and the grangers lost in the neighborhood of a point. Towards 11 o'clock prices hardened and there were some good recoveries.

An additional impulse to covering operations was given by the strength of Manhattan, which bounded up 2½c to $1.21. The advance in the general list, however, was not long retained, realizing in the standard stocks and liquidation in Sugar wiping out most of the recoveries.

Sales to noon, 280,411 shares.

Price changes of bonds were slightly mixed and the demand small.

The market was weighted with some realizing sales late in the day and was sustained by the large buying of Atchison preferred, which rose to 61½c.

Colorado fuel jumped 2½c from the lowest. The closing was moderately active and firm at net gains in nearly all cases.

ENTERPRISE IN CUBA.

Inspector Letherman Tells of Its People and Recent Changes.

SPANIARDS KEEN BUSINESS MEN.

New Postal Service Is In Fine Working Trim—Major Rathbone Very Popular With Cubans—Natives Wanted Their Cockfights—The Way the People Work.

Mr. Lawrence Letherman, one of the popular and efficient attaches of the United States postal inspector's office in Cincinnati, is welcomed back from a several months' official sojourn in Cuba. He went over to the island in February, when Major Rathbone began organizing the postal system and needed the assistance of experienced men in each branch of the service. Mr. Letherman was in Havana for several months, but in the line of work he visited nearly every province and city in the island. He speaks very interestingly of Cuban scenes and experiences.

"When we first got to Havana," he said to a Cincinnati Commercial Tribune reporter recently, "the streets were filthy beyond description. The drainage there is or was over the street surface and in open ditches or gutters. It was simply terrible. It's the fashion largely to occupy the stable in the residence, and it is a common thing to see homes or houses with the lower floor or basement given up to the horses and the upper floor occupied by the family. You can imagine the result when you remember that the stable drainage flowed directly out on the street. General Ludlow's chief work has been in changing the conditions caused by such a system. It has been an awful job to get matters into proper and decent shape, but the sewer building is doing it.

"What riled the natives most of all, though, was the general's order stopping bullfighting and cockfighting. These were their pet sports and they were very much huffed at being deprived of them. The general also stopped the running about of naked children in the streets. He required that they should be dressed.

"The great majority of the people are blacks. The native Cubans are small fellows and quite handsome in appearance. They are a pleasure loving people and give up a large share of their time to sport and pastime. They are not thrifty or businesslike, and the masses are rude and ignorant as a general thing.

"The Spaniards are the principal business men down there. They are splendid business men too. Yes, I know it sounds odd to hear that, but that's the way it is. The sharpest set of bargain drivers or business men that we have in Cincinnati or anywhere else would not be able to get ahead of the Spanish business men. They had to be sharp to provide all the taxes that their own government and officials were constantly extorting from them. There was nothing that escaped the tax gatherers. Any man who had a hotel had to pay a tax for every guest that registered. Taxes went as high sometimes as 50 per cent of the value of the things taxed. The officials robbed the Spanish business men, and the latter had to recoup themselves however they could. The Spaniards own the greater part of the land and business. They are for annexation to the United States and fear their property will be confiscated by the Cubans if they get control.

"The Cubans have their own way of working. They are early risers. They begin at 6 o'clock in the morning and keep on till 11. Then they take their siesta, or rest, till 3, during the hottest part of the day. Then they start in again. The climate is not so trying. In the time I was there there was not a night that a blanket did not feel comfortable to sleep under.

"The Americans were thick about February and March. In May they began getting away as fast as they could. They had the yellow fever scare. The people eat very little meat. At Cienfuegos I met the Rev. Sam Small, the evangelist, formerly with Rev. Sam Jones. Mr. Small is principal of a school in that town and seemed greatly satisfied with his new location and surroundings.

"Cuba now has a good postal service. When the Spaniards were running the government, every time a letter regularly stamped came to a man from a foreign country he had to pay 3 cents before the carrier would deliver it. To business men who got 300 or 400 letters a day this was a big burden. Now they get their letters just as any person or firm in the United States gets them. They are pleased, of course. There are postoffices in every town and money order facilities in all the larger towns. The plan has been to put good Cubans in charge of these offices wherever it can be done. Major Rathbone has everything in fine working order, and both he and Mrs. Rathbone are very popular with the Cubans and the business people.

"Cuba has everything to make it the garden spot of America," said Mr. Letherman in conclusion, "and under American control it is bound to blossom as the rose."

The Relapse.

"Let me see," said Dr. Wise, "what is your occupation?"

"I am one of the street cleaning gang, sir."

"It is as I suspected," said the doctor. "You need exercise. It is the way of all persons who follow a sedentary employment."—Boston Transcript.

Chin Music.

"You shave yourself?" asked the barber.

"Yes."

WIRELESS TELEPHONY.

An Invention to Prevent Collisions at Sea.

WORK OF A SICILIAN PROFESSOR.

Apparatus Will Announce a Ship's Approach—Officers on Different Vessels Able to Talk to Each Other. Sounds Transmitted by the Water and Taken Up by Telephones.

An invention recently made by an Italian scientist is aimed to prevent collisions at sea and renders submarine boats useless for hostile operations.

The invention is known as "wireless telephony," and is intended to enable officers on different ships to talk with each other without the aid of wires. Commander Richardson Clover, chief of the office of naval intelligence, said the other day that the invention has received considerable attention abroad, and contains elements of success. It is likely that the navy department, according to a Washington dispatch to the New York Herald, will carefully look into the matter with a view to the use of the invention in the American naval service.

Experiments have been made on the Italian gunboat Scilla, in the gulf of Genoa, in presence of scientists and naval experts. The inventor is a Sicilian professor, Mario Russo d'Asar. Wireless telephony announces in the darkness of the night or a dense fog the approach of ships, torpedo boats and even of the invisible submarine boat, indicates their direction and places the men on watch on guard.

Concerning the invention and the trials which have been made this translation of an article in L'Italia Marinara, which has been confirmed by official reports, has been made:

"It is well known that transmissibility of sounds is in direct ratio to the density of the means through which they are transmitted. It is equally well known that water is an excellent means for transmitting sounds to a distance.

"It has been noticed that a bather, immersed in water, hears with great distinctness the sound of a steamer's engine in motion, because the water in which the latter is immersed is in a special state of vibration, owing to the movement of the engine and screw actuated thereby.

"From these principles the inventor derived the conclusion that if the air could seize these vibrations of sound an instrument of great sensibility functioning below water would be susceptible of seizing them at a greater distance and with greater distinctness, and became convinced that a telephone apparatus should be the point of departure for obtaining the practical means of signaling between two vessels. The water would take the place of the wires. It was necessary first of all to construct a sound receiver which would perform the functions of the ear below the surface of the water, then another apparatus that would increase the sounds received and indicate the direction whence they came.

"One part of the telephone apparatus is placed on the conning bridge, and the other is secured to the ship's side and immersed in the water, from which it receives the vibrations produced by the engine in motion of another vessel and transmits them in increased volume to the telephone apparatus.

"The submarine receiver is a kind of box secured to the hull with a number of depressions, so as to receive the sounds from all directions. From the center of each of these an electric wire leads to the telephone, which latter contains an ingenious mechanism based on Edison's well known scientific principles.

"A dial plate on a board is divided into two parts corresponding to the two sides of the ship. Two hands indicate the direction of the steamer signaled. A system of bells at the upper part of the dial plate and one of the receivers on the board indicates by sound with the greatest distinctness the rhythm of the screw of the distant vessel.

"When coming within seven kilometers of a steamer the hand of the telephone turns and indicates the direction of the vessel and follows its route, while the bells and receiver beat simultaneously the cadence of the distant screw. The noises of the vessel on which the apparatus of the vessel is located cause no disturbance, because, owing to the special construction of the submarine receiver, they are not transmitted."

Woman Finds Wealth.

Miss Frankie Florman of Black Hills, S. D., has discovered what Atlin mining men regard as an immense quartz mine. The vein is from 200 to 600 feet in width and is intersected in its course by Atlin City. It has been traced over three-quarters of a mile. Miss Florman's father is a mine expert, and numerous assays of the ore which he recently made disclosed values running from $8 to $27 per ton on the surface, says the Chicago Record. Mining Expert Frank Baker and William Partridge have bonded the property for $200,000. Partridge left Tacoma recently for London to place it on the market there.

THE PEOPLE'S STORE.

At a time when we are enjoying a very good business, we find invoicing time close upon us, and in order to greatly reduce our stock of Dry Goods, etc., it becomes necessary for us to announce that OUR

Regardless of the fact that Dry Goods of every kind have greatly advanced in price of late, we shall, DURING THIS SALE, SELL GOODS JUST AS CHEAP as WE HAVE EVER DONE BEFORE, for the reason that we purchased the bulk of our stock previous to the rise in prices. We doubt if the chance will ever occur again for the purchasing public of this community to buy DRY GOODS so LOW IN PRICE. DEATH OF ROBERT BONNER.

THE END COMES TO THE NOTED PUBLISHER.

Famous as an Editor, a Churchman, a Philanthropist and Lover of Fine Horses.

New York, July 7.—Robert Bonner, editor, churchman and lover of fine horses, died at his home, 8 West Fifty-sixth street, at 7:40 o'clock last night. He was seventy-eight years old. There was no organic trouble, and death was due, his physicians say, to the shock of two great sorrows—the death of his eldest son, Andrew Allen Bonner, from pneumonia, on December 27 last, and of his pastor, Rev. Dr. John Hall, to whom he was deeply attached and one of whose warmest supporters he had been through all the troubles which led to Dr. Hall's final retirement from the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church.

Without these bereavements, the doctors say, there was no reason why he should not have lived for many years, for his life had always been one of frugal regularity. He began to decline with the death of his son, and as long ago as March he told his remaining children that his own time had come. He had been confined to his bed only eight days and a week ago Tuesday he was out driving.

The end came peacefully and painlessly. Mr. Bonner lost consciousness early in the morning and did not again rally. His three surviving children were about his bedside when his eyes closed for the last time.

Mr. Bonner began life in a printing office at Hartford, Conn., working twelve hours a day and his salary for the whole of the first year was $25 in cash, his board and clothing being included. The second year he received $35 and the third year $45. A year later he had completed his apprenticeship and went to New York where he secured a position, saving in his first year $70, which was deposited in a bank, earning $3.50 interest.

In 1850 young Bonner saw in what was then a little sheet called the Merchants' Ledger great possibilities and he bought it at a small figure. His first ambition was to increase the circulation, and he saw the inclination of the reading public turn to stories. He secured the services of Miss Fannie Fern, then the most popular woman writer of the time, paying her $1,000 for a ten-column story. The whole newspaper world told of the extravagance and Mr. Bonner, often counted the value of the advertising thus gained at $50,000. He then branched out, enlarged the paper, and engaged new and noed authors, notable among whom was Henry Ward Beecher, to whom he paid $30,000 for a single novel. Edward Everett was also a contributor and between the two great men they soon made the Ledger the most talked of newspaper in America.

Mr. Bonner was a student of advertising and spent vast sums in letting the public know the merits of the Ledger. "One of the great secrets of success," said Mr. Bonner once, "is to first have a good thing, and then advertise it, so that people cannot help knowing that you have it."

Robert Bonner was a great admirer of horse flesh and was noted as the owner of Sunol and Maud S., two of the fastest horses of their time, the latter setting a mark which stood for many years in the trotting world. He also owned a number of other fast horses, but was never given to campaigning them on the race tracks, rather being averse to racing.

PENNSYLVANIA AND NEW YORK CENTRAL SEPARATE.

REPORTED DEAL A CANARD

GOTTEN UP BY ENTERPRISING CORRESPONDENT.

WILL BUILD DOUBLE TRACK

WEST END OF FORT WAYNE LINE TO BE IMPROVED

Philadelphia, Pa., July 7.—A prominent official close to Pres. A. J. Cassatt, of the Pennsylvania railroad, today denied the published statement that the Pennsylvania and the New York Central railroads had entered a compact by which the two systems had practically become one. To a reporter of the Associated Press he said:

"The story is too absurd to receive any consideration. There has never been any thought of consolidating the two systems. The statement is simply a rehash of a story published some time ago. The New York Central is practically a family railroad, owned by the Vanderbilts, while there are 30,000 stockholders in the Pennsylvania railroad. The relations of the two companies are pleasant, but as the Pennsylvania railroad is competing with the New York Central for western traffic the interests of the two roads are not compatible, and consequently a consolidation or amalgamation would be out of the question."

Regarding Mr. Cassatt's presence at the Boston and Albany lease meeting of the New York Central directors, the official said: "Mr. Cassatt made a personal call on President Calloway, of the New York Central, on that day, but he was not present during the meeting of the board of directors."

He ridiculed the idea that Mr. Vanderbilt was instrumental in securing President Cassatt's appointment and denied the statement that Mr. Vanderbilt is the largest stockholder in the Pennsylvania railroad.

CALLOWAY DON'T BELIEVE IT.

New York, July 7.—Concerning the report that the New York Central system and the Pennsylvania railway system were to be merged, S. R. Calloway, president of the New York Central railway company, said today that the first he had heard of the report was through a newspaper article. He had absolutely nothing to say in regard to it.

Later in the day President Calloway issued this statement: "There is no truth in the report. Mr. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, was not present at any meeting of the New York Central board of directors. His presence in the city at the time the New York Central directors met to ratify the Boston and Albany lease was simply a coincidence."

PENNSYLVANIA MEN HONORED.

Three Pennsylvania officials will read papers at the international railroad congress at Paris next year. General Manager L. F. Loree will discuss the question of "Economical Size of Goods, Trucks or Capacity of Freight Cars;" Chemist Charles B. Dudley will read an article on "Use of Steel and Ingot Iron in Construction of Locomotives and Rolling Stock," and Mechanical Engineer Alex S. Vogt will discourse upon the subject of "Locomotives for Trains Run at a Very High Speed." Frank Thomson, late president of the Pennsylvania road, was one of the delegates selected by Americans to represent them in the congress. The vacancy caused by his death has not yet been filled.

SOLD TO COMMITTEE.

Eau Clair, Wis., July 7.—The Wisconsin Central railroad was sold to the reorganization committee today for $7,300,000.

DYNAMO SHIPMENT.

The Fort Wayne Electric works will put in a lighting plant at Springfield, Ill., and yesterday sent one of the dynamos, a 1,500-light incadescent machine, to that city. A millwright will leave for that city Monday to install the machinery.

HEAVY MOVEMENT OF COAL.

A Pittsburg paper says at present the coal carrying roads are having tremendous traffic. The Pittsburg and Lake Erie is doing the heaviest business in its history and it is the same with the Pennsylvania lines and the Pittsburg and Western, where every car and locomotive fit for use is in service. On Sunday the Panhandle sent over 300 cars of coal to the Sheridan yards and the Ohio connecting railroad crews were kept busy hauling trains over the Fort Wayne.

SMASH-UP AT DELPHOS.

There was an exciting crossing accident at Delphos, O., yesterday. A Pittsburg train crew was doing some switching and had just "kicked" a couple cars down the track in time to obstruct the crossing of the Clover Leaf, down which a freight train was bearing at the rate of fifteen miles an hour. The engine struck the Pennsylvania car midway and threw it over against the little telegraph and agent's building of the Clover Leaf, upsetting it. The other Pennsylvania car struck the Clover Leaf engine, dismantling it completely and throwing it from the rails. The engine crew saw that a collision was inevitable and jumped from the cab, escaping with a few slight bruises. Art. Hedrick, Clover Leaf operator, and Charles Clark, freight house attache, were in the station house at the time of the collision and were tumbled about roughly, but escaped injury. They were taken out of the building through one of the windows, both being so badly frightened as to render them almost helpless. The loss is considerable.

LARGEST IN ITS HISTORY.

The Pittsburg machine shop now has the largest force of workmen in its history. If the works could accommodate more men still further additions would probably be made, but the limit has been reached and no more mechanics will be hired at present. The shop pay rolls for the summer months of 1899 will be greater than for any similar period of former years. Some of the departments are running thirteen hours per day.

WILL DOUBLE TRACK.

The Pennsylvania company is about to commence the work of extending the second track on the western division of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago road. Three stretches of double track will be laid this summer, viz.: From Dunkirk to Lafayette, O.; from Elida, O. to Adams, Ind., and from Winslow to Wanatah, Ind., making a total of new track of sixty-six miles and a total of double track on the western division of 160 miles out of 280. This improvement will be pushed as rapidly as possible in order to complete it before navigation closes when freight business on the line will increase. It will furnish employment to hundreds of men and will place a lot of money in circulation in the territory through which the improvements extend. Mr. Thomas Rodd, the company's chief engineer, has just completed an inspection of the line and as a result of his recommendation the work is to be accomplished. He was accompanied on the trip by Superintendent J. B. McKim and Civil Engineer E. G. Ericson.

N. R. Messick and R. B. Bate, machinists, have arrived from St Louis to take positions in the Wabash shops. C. F. Eichel also commenced work in that shop this morning. He will learn the boiler trade.

The net earnings of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul for the year are estimated at $13,750,000, and the increase in net over 1897-1898 about $1,300,000. Last year a surplus of $1,294,994, was carried over.

Passenger Conductor Cliff Ellenwood, of the Pittsburg, is entertaining his cousin, Frank Ellenwood, of Marietta, Ohio. The young man is en route to California, to re-enter the Leland Stanford university to resume his studies.

The Bass works shipped a big heater to the Fort Wayne Gas company's pumping station, near Bluffton, yesterday. The gas people are preparing to increase the flow of gas and avert, if possible, a shortage in the supply next winter.

George Smith, foreman of the Wabash machine shop, now wears a beautiful watch charm that was presented to him by the men employed in the shops of the Lima Northern road at Tecumseh, Mich., of which Mr. Smith was the general foreman.

Dr. J. H. Talbott, of Indianapolis, who was here a few days ago, the guest of Dr. E. F. Wagner, has gone to the seashore to remain a month. He is in poor health. Dr. Talbott is medical examiner for the Pennsylvania Voluntary Relief association, Indianapolis branch.

The electric works will be closed at 11 o'clock tomorrow in order that the employes can have time to go home and prepare for going to the park at 1:30 o'clock, the apponted time for departure. The men and those who will participate with them in the festivities at Robison park tomorrow anticipate a good time.

The Bluffton News says: "C. W. Buck, of Fort Wayne, is in the city meeting old friends. Mr. Buck was prominently connected with the opening of the Lake Erie and Western railroad. He was conductor on the first train that ever ran through Bluffton in 1870. He finds very few familiar faces here of those who were here thirty years ago."

An understanding has been reached between the receivers of the Kansas, City, Pittsburg and Gulf road and the Kountz Bros., who control the deep water outlet at Sabine Pass. As a result of recent conferences the Kountz interests have promised to build a terminal railway from Port Arthur to the docks, at Sabine City, and the receivers have said that they will make traffic arrangements with them.

MARIE SEYMOUR BISSELL,

ONE OF NEW YORK'S LEADING TEACHERS,

Pays High Tribute to the Artistic Qualities of the Packard Piano.

New York, June 28th, '99.
Fort Wayne Organ Co.:
Dear Sirs:—It gives me great pleasure to tell you that the Packard Piano, which I used at my concert in Mendelssohn hall May 11th gave me and my pupils the greatest satisfaction. The quality of tone was all that could be desired—the action perfect. The accompaniments I was obliged to play required the most delicate response from the instrument, a quality I find lacking in most of the pianos heretofore used, but your instrument meets every requirement. Some of my advanced pupils who are before the public in concert work, including Grace Preston, contralto of the Nordica Concert Co. last season; Sarah King Peek, one of New York's excellent artists; Miss Agnes Forbes, vocal teacher at Mrs. Hazen's seminary at Pelham Manor, and several others, were most enthusiastic in their praise of your piano. The principal feature which pleased us all was the wonderful support it gave to the voice, the quality being so full and rich that it lent an inspiration to the artist. I feel I cannot praise it too highly and hope I may have one in my studio next season.
Very truly yours,
Marie S. Bissell,
Vocal Instructor.

Booker—Is your friend a good critic? Penman—Oh, yes. He don't mind being sworn at a bit.

Bill—Does your gas meter run all night?
Jill—Run? It fairly gallops!

She—What has your wife got on her bonnet?
He—I think she's got $6 on it yet.

Patrice—Charley lost his head in the interview, I hear.
Patience—Well, he didn't lose much.

She—Didn't you feel like clapping your hands while she was singing?
He—Yes—clapping my hands over my ears.

Bill—I want something that will stick to my ribs.
Jill—Why not try some of that liquid glue?

The Delinquent Boarder—This piece of chicken you've given me is just like rubber.
The Lady He Owes—Well, it's the neck, isn't it?

She—Do you see anything ridiculous about that hat?
He—No, dear; but I haven't seen the bill yet.

Finesse.

She did not poison her husband, although he was 73 years old, while she was but 18. She was far too clever for that. Instead she kissed his brow and asked him would he not, for her sake, try to live to be 100. Of course he could not refuse. The effort to live to be 100 was at his advanced age necessarily fatal, and the young wife came at once into all his property.—Detroit Journal.

SITUATION ADMITTED GRAVE

DISPATCHES FROM WASHINGTON TO AMBASSADOR.

London, July 7.—The officials of the foreign office were shown today the dispatch of the Associated Press from Washington Thursday, saying there was almost a deadlock over the modus vivendi fixing the Alaskan boundary, neither side being willing to accept the provisional line proposed by the other.

The officials confirm the contents of the dispatch, acknowledge the situation is grave and say the present outlook is more unsatisfastory than at any time since February.

This is keenly regretted at the foreign office, as it had been thought the negotiations were in a very satisfactory state.

It has been learned by a representative of the Associated Press that United States Ambassador Choate received this morning dispatches from Washington regarding the negotiations.

Henry Schroeder was arrested on a charge of trespass preferred by Caroline Lenz. The defendant could not talk English and Lieutenant Lapp acted as interpreter. A fine of $1 and costs was assessed and Schroeder went to jail.

John Baxter, a drunk arrested by Officer Paul, was discharged.

VERDICT FOR DEFENDANT.

The jury in the case of Frank Boucher vs. Squire Thornton, brought in a sealed verdict finding for defendant. HIRED BY MILAN'S ENEMIES.

BOARD OF WORKS.

Only routine business was transacted by the board of works last evening. A petition was received for the grading of Simons street from Walton avenue to Winter street, and another petition was received asking for a sidewalk on the east side of Reed street from Creighton avenue to Green street.

Mrs. George Freeby, who was injured in a runaway at Knox, Ind., two or three weeks ago, is now so far improved that she is able to walk about and will come home in a short time. Mrs. Lundin, the lady who was riding with Mrs. Freeby at the time of the accident, was more seriously injured. She is still confined to her bed, being unable to move unaided.

KICKED BY A COW.

Early this morning Mrs. John Sprankle, wife of a farmer in Aboite township, eight miles out on the Huntington road, was kicked by a cow and suffered a dislocation of the hip. The injury is a very painful one, but no serious results are apprehended.

GUTHRIE DIVORCE CASE.

Judge Hench this morning heard evidence in the divorce case commenced by Emma Guthrie against Thornton Guthrie. The litigants are colored people and the court room was filled with colored citizens who were witnesses or interested in the outcome of the suit.

The county commissioners received a petition for the Schilling road in Wayne township, and William Clark, Charles Stellhorn and Paul Trier were appointed viewers. On the petition for the Ladig road in Lake township, Charles Moellering, William Eggeman and Jacob Gable were appointed viewers. The board established the Moellering road in Wayne township and reported against the damages prayed for.

THE STATE BAR ASSOCIATION.

LAWYERS OF INDIANA ARE IN INDIANAPOLIS.

William Wirt Howe, of New Orleans, Discusses "Legal Ethics"—Other Speakers.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 7.—At the second day's session of the State Bar association, the chief speaker was William Wirt Howe, of New Orleans, who spoke on "Legal Ethics." He said:

"It is not necessary to decide what may be the true data or real basis of ethics in general or of legal ethics in particular. Some persons may ask, 'What is the use of telling us about such matters?' We know the difference between right and wrong, and do not require any specific suggestions on this subject.' Such, however, is not the verdict of the most intelligent men on these questions. A very bright poet has said that

" 'Evil is wrought
By want of thought
As well as want of heart.'

Thereby stating a great truth, that right doing is very largely a result of careful attention and reflection as to what right doing may be under the special circumstances of a given case. When we are admonished to 'cease to do evil and learn to do well,' it is necessarily implied that there is such a thing as learning in the region of ethics."

The speaker then divided his subjects into two parts, first a consideration of the intellectual conscience in professional work, and secondly, a consideration of the moral conscience.

Following Sainte Beuve and Matthew Arnold, he contended that there is "an intellectual conscience which enjoins us, as professional men, to do not only what we are merely bound to do, but to do it in the best and most artistic manner. We ought to exhibit that genius which has been defined as a capacity for taking infinite pains. If such diligence is needed in music and painting and such like ornamental things, is it not as much needed in a profession that concerns the fortunes and perhaps the liberty or even the life of a client?

"But there is also what we call the moral conscience, which in general estimation is considered of greater concern and embraces the chief domain of legal ethics. This moral conscience is just as binding upon judges and courts as it is upon lawyers."

The practice of levying assessments on candidates for judicial election was mentioned and denounced as a vicious system and one that easily tends to dishonor the judicial office.

John T. Dye, of Indianapolis, spoke on "The Extent and Limits of Legislative Control Over the Freedom of Contract."

STREAMING SKIES

AND LEAKING TENTS DO NOT DETER ENDEAVORS.

MORNING SERVICE IN RAIN.

CANVAS PAVILIONS WERE NO PROTECTION.

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE AND POLYGAMY DISCUSSED.

Detroit, Mich., July 7.—"Showers of Blessing" and "There's Sunshine in My Soul Today" were the favorite hymns sung by Christian Endeavorers this morning en route to the "quiet hour" in Tent Endeavor. However abundant the spiritual showers may have been, the physical rains were certainly copious enough to drench everything in sight and the utter incapability of the Endeavor Tents to exclude rain was fully demonstrated.

Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, leader of the "quiet hour," and H. G. Smyth, the New York Gospel singer, stood on the speaker's platform, hats on, directing the proceedings, shielding themselves with umbrellas from the streams of water that dribbled through the big sheet iron resonator overhead.

Tent Endeavor was a broad and long expanse of shining umbrellas. Scarcely anybody found a dry spot to sit upon and it rained inside the tent almost as hard, and in places harder, than out of doors.

The long decorative bands of red and white sagged and drooped like sponges and the banners all looked tired.

The audience appeared large enough to fill the tent, but it was mostly umbrellas. For a long time the muffled roar of falling rain on the roof precluded hope of speaking or audible prayer, so the people sang instead, led by four brass wind instruments sticking out from more umbrellas on the stage. After a time there was a short, partial cessation of the downpour and the "quiet hour" was carried out amid surroundings which made the title a misnomer.

Hundreds of young people braved the elements and appeared at the grounds for the main 10 o'clock gatherings, but postponement, for the time being at least, was inevitable.

The rain practically ceased soon after 10 o'clok, the tent seats became practically dried out, and the programs proceeded with both the great main tents comfortably filled.

Today's speaking was not wholly from the platforms. The humblest delegates in the audiences had their chances as against the pulpit orators on the stage. They promptly improved all opportunities given by the open parliament to shout out their experiences in religious work and their plans for future efforts toward the regeneration of the world.

Tent Endeavor was sthe scene of a "practical school of methods," addresses alternating with open parliaments in bringing out consenses of opinions and past and prospective achievements.

Detroit, Mich., July 7.—Soon after the break of dawn today the trustees of the United society of Christian Endeavor gathered in the Hotel Cadillac to discuss several matters left undetermined at Wednesday's meeting. The most important of these was the consideration of a protest from the ministerial alliance of Toledo against the opening of the gates of the Ohio centennial on Sunday.

After some discussion and contrary to the expressed wishes of the Toledo representatives, who were present, a general resolution was authorized, protesting in the name of the Christian Endeavor society, against opening the gates of any national exposition or fair on the Sabbath

Another resolution was authorized protesting against the seating of Congressman-elect Brigham H. Roberts, of Utah.

Both resolutions were roughly drawn. When completed the text will be submitted to the general convention for adoption.

The trustees consumed some time in the discussion of matters concerning the 1900 convention at London, and the methods and rates of ocean transportation, but adjourned without definite action.

There is understood to be a plan under consideration for the chartering of several large ocean steamships to carry the American Endeavorers to England.

Secretary Baer says the idea is to make a straight fare for all parts of the ships and have the second cabins and steerages fitted up as nearly as possible on an equality with the first cabin staterooms and also allow the passengers full privileges of the upper decks and provide them with all possible conveniences

BIG JOB AHEAD.

Contractors Moellering & Co. have thirty-eight blocks of street to complete this fall in addition to the pavement on South Calhoun street, where four squares were laid in four weeks. The board of works believes that the contractors will proceed faster on streets where there is no track and assert confidently that the work will be completed this week.

STEWART STONE PLANT STAYS

HAS BEEN PURCHASED BY FRANK CARLUCCI.

Pennsylvania Contractor Will Maintain the Works on Fairfield Avenue.

The completion of the new court house by Contractors James Stewart & Co. will not mean the removal of their large stone cutting plant on Fairfield avenue. It will remain among the industries of Fort Wayne and will doubtless give employment to from fifty to seventy-five men, nearly all of whom are home workmen.

The Messrs. Stewart have sold the plant to Frank Carlucci, a prominent stone contractor of Scranton, Pa., who has placed Peter Holster, of this city, in charge. Mr. Carlucci has a number of extensive eastern contracts in which Bedford stone is used. He proposes to ship the stone from the quarries to Fort Wayne, where it will be trimmed and dressed and then reshipped to the east. How long the plant will be maintained here cannot be definitely stated, but present contracts insure its continuance for at least a year, and perhaps longer.

The plant is an extensive one, fully equipped with machinery for all branches of the work. The work on stone for the court house will be completed within a few days, and Mr. Carlucci, the new proprietor, already has several carloads of stone on the way to this city.

THE DOG POISONER AGAIN.

HE PAYS A VISIT TO THE SOUTHEAST PART OF CITY.

John Tremmel Reports That Fourteen Canines Have Been Poisoned in Two Days.

The dog poisoner is again at work and as a result of his work Poundmaster John Tremmel reports that within two days no less than fourteen canines have been sent to the "happy hunting grounds." The poisoner's operations this time have been confined to the southeastern portion of the city, principally on Force and South Hanna streets. Wednesday Mr. Tremmel was called to carry away the remains of five dogs which had been poisoned and yesterday he disposed of nine more that had been victims of the poisoner. Some of the dogs were quite valuable and the owners thereof promise to make it very unpleasant for the fiend who administered the deadly poison to their canines. There is no clue to the poisoner, although persons who have lost their valuable dogs are investigating in the hope of uncovering the perpetrator.

WILL BE NO CHANGE.

For several days rumors ave been current to the effect that the firm of DeWald & Co. were contemplating retiring from the retail dry goods business and devoting their exclusive attention to the wholesale trade. To a reporter for The Sentinel this morning R. W. T. DeWald stated that there was absolutely no truth in the rumors. "You may say," said Mr. DeWald, "that there will be no change in the business whatever. Our firm has enjoyed the patronage of the people of Fort Wayne and vicinity for so many years and the retail business is so well established and satisfactory that we have not for a moment contemplated abandoning it. The DeWald store will continue along the lines it has followed for so many years."

Theodore Keyser, of the Jacobs shoe store, will spend Sunday in Chicago.

IN AN EXPLOSION

THE WIFE OF CAPTAIN DICKINS LOST HER LIFE.

A TRAGEDY IN WASHINGTON

THE FUMES OF GASOLINE WERE IGNITED.

HOUSE FRONT BLOWN OUT

MRS. DICKINS WAS A WELL KNOWN WRITER.

Washington, D. C., July 7.—An explosion, followed by fire in the residence of Captain Dickins, of the United States navy, at 10:45 this morning, resulted in the shocking death of Mrs. Dickins. Other persons in the house were severely but not dangerously injured.

The Dickins residence is a handsome three-story brick building on Nineteenth street, directly back of the British embassy and within a few steps of Dupon circle. The first intimation of fire was a low rumble followed by several violent shocks, which blew out the entire third story front of the residence.

The firemen made their way to the third story and among the debris littering the front room found the blackened corpse of a woman. It was the body of Mrs. Dickins. From Joseph Vaughn, a plumber, who, with his assistant, was at work placing a gutter at the rear of the third story roof, it is learned that he and his man were descending a ladder with a lighted melting pot. Vaughn detected the odor of gasoline and warned his man to be careful. As they passed through an open door they saw a woman sprinkling some liquid on the floor. Almost immedintely the explosion followed. Vaughn, after the explosion seized the woman and tried to drag her from the place, but was driven back by the flames. He led the rescuers to the place. Mrs. Dickins' death was undoubtedly caused by the explosion and she suffered none from the succeeding flames, as Vaughn thinks she was dead when he took hold of her.

Captain Dickins was summoned from the navy department and almost fainted when he reached home and learned of the death of his wife. Captain Dickens is one of the best known officers in the navy and is next to Captain Crowninshield at the head of the bureau of navigation. Mrs. Dickins was an author of some note, one of her best known books being "Around the World in a Man-of-War." She was also a frequent contributor to magazines.

UNCONSCIOUS ON THE STREET

FRED STRONG WAS FOUND THIS MORNING.

Supposed Case of Epilepsy Proves to Be Something Else—A Mysterious Case.

Seated upon a box in front of the grocery store of Coverdale & Archer at 11:30 today Fred Strong was found in an unconscious condition. Strong is a single man about thirty years of age, and his home is in Richland county, Ohio. He has been employed as a marble polisher on the new court house, and boarded at 15 Pearl street.

When found this morning he was taken into the store and as hasty preliminary remedies failed to restore him, the ambulance was called and he was taken to his boarding house. It was believed he was suffering from some form of epilepsy, but Dr. Derbyshire, who was summoned, hastily dispelled that idea.

Dr. Derbyshire says he believes Strong has swallowed some form of opiate, probably laudanum. He was given immediate attention, and late this afternoon the doctor gave the opinion that Strong would recover. The man was not able to make a statement of his case, and for some time resisted all efforts to help him.

BOY HURT IN COLLISION.

Alfred Garmater, a twelve-year-old lad, came to the city from Woodburn today and purchased a bicycle at Marion Black's. He started for a ride this afternoon and at the corner of Calhoun and Washington streets collided with a horse and buggy driven by Angus McPherson. The shaft struck the lad in the groin and lacerated the tissues thereof. He was carried to Dr. English's office and the doctor made an examination, but doesn't consider the injuries at all dangerous now. The lad returned to his home this afternoon.

THE SITUATION IS TERRIBLE.

FLOODED DISTRICTS IN TEXAS NEED HELP.

Thousands to Be taken Care of—The Railroads Have Abandoned All Traffic.

Richmond, Texas July 7.—Never in the history of Richmond were such scenes witnessed as were depicted today. Business is practically suspended.

Many plantations are under water. All trains save those on the Southern Pacific west have been abandoned. Provisions are running low and unless something is done quickly there will be great suffering here within a few days. It is believed there will be at the very least 3,000 to 5,000 persons to feed from this place within a week. Stories of drowning and disasters are coming in constantly, but they cannot be verified, although it is probable that many of them are correct.

The water has reached the river bridge and is dashing between the iron guy rods under it and for the first time the railroad company has stopped all traffic over it.

TRAIN SERVICE ABANDONED.

St. Louis, Mo., July 7.—A special to the Republic from Dallas, Tex., says:

The railroad situation in Texas because of the floods is so much worse than it has been heretofore that the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe has had to abandon its through trains from St. Louis and Kansas City at Dallas and Fort Worth respectively.

The Santa Fe had until last night, by running on a roundabout way, managed to get through to Galveston, but the new washouts in the lower Brazos country stopped even this traffic.

The abandonment of the Santa Fe trains severs the last link of anything like direct connection between Northern and Southern Texas. To reach these points now it is necessary to travel via Shreveport, La.

The flood damages to railroad property in Texas is now conservatively estimated at $3,000,000.

THEY GO ACQUIT.

SLAYERS OF GENERAL LUNA FOUND NOT GUILTY.

TOOK LIFE IN SELF-DEFENSE

AGUINALDO'S PRESTIGE HAS GROWN STRONGER.

LUNA'S FOLLOWERS LOYAL

THE NEWS THAT COMES FROM THE SEAT OF WAR.

Manila, July 7.—7:30 p. m.—The trial, at Cabanatuan, of the slayers of General Luna, the Filipino leador who was assassinated by the guard of Aguinaldo's residence, is ended. The accused were acquitted on the ground of self-defense.

The testimony showed that there was a conspiracy upon the part of Luna and other officers to kill Aguinaldo and make Luna dictator.

Luna's death seems to have strengthened Aguinaldo's leadership for the time. Luna's supporters are now outwardly loyal to Aguinaldo.

CASES WILL BE DISMISSED.

DR. W. C. COLLINS MAKES THE REQUEST.

Writes a Letter to the Prosecuting Attorney Explaining His Position.

The Fort Wayne and Youngstown base ball players will not be prosecuted for playing base ball last Sunday. The prosecuting attorney was prepared to go ahead with the cases, although he was of the opinion that the cases would have to be thrown out on account of defective affidavits. Yesterday a letter was received from W. C. Collins, the dentist who filed the affidavits, requesting Mr. Doughman to dismiss the cases. Here is the letter:

"Fort Wayne, Ind., July 6, 1899—Mr. N. D. Dougliman, Prosecuting Attorney, City:—Dear Sir: After fully considering the matter of the prosecution of the base ball players for playing base ball on last Sunday, July 2nd, against which players I made affidavits, which are now pending before Justice Harry F. France, I do not feel that I desire the prosecution to continue upon these affidavits, but desire that the same shall be dismissed. I do not wish to be understood as favoring any violation of the law, nor understood to say that in this instance there was no violation of the law, but prefer to take no active part in these prosecutions. For these reasons I request that you have these cases dismissed and do not prosecute upon the affidavits made by me.

"Very respectfully,

"W. C. Collins."

To a Sentinel reporter this morning Mr. Doughman said the cases would be dismissed when they were called for trial tomorrow afternoon, if not before that time.

The action of Revs. McGaw and Cissell, who yesterday secured copies of affidavits from the prosecuting attorney, indicates that they will not abandon the fight against Sunday base ball, but as to their future methods of prosecution they are reticent.

Sacrificed to Blood Poison.

Those who have never had Blood Poison can not know what a desperate condition it can produce. This terrible disease which the doctors are totally unable to cure, is communicated from one generation to another, inflicting its taint upon countless innocent ones.

Some years ago I was inoculated with poison by a nurse who infected my babe with blood taint. The little one was unequal to the struggle, and its life was yielded up to the fearful poison. For six long years I suffered untold misery. I was covered with sores and ulcers from head to foot, and no language can express my feelings of woe during these long years. I had the best medical treatment. Several physicians successively treated me, but all to no purpose. The mercury and potash seemed to add fuel to the awful flame which was devouring me. I was advised by friends who had seen wonderful cures made by it, to try S.S.S. Speedily. We got two bottles, and I felt hope again revive in my [illegible] for health and happiness [illegible] the start, and a complete and perfect cure was the result. S. S. S. is truly a great remedy which reaches deep-seated cases. Mrs. T. W. Lee, Montgomery, Ala.

Of the many blood remedies, S. S. S. is the only one which can reach deep-seated, violent cases. It never fails to cure perfectly and permanently the most desperate cases which are beyond the reach of other remedies.

S.S.S. For The Blood

is purely vegetable, and is the only blood remedy guaranteed to contain no mercury, potash, or other mineral.

The Old Soldiers had rather an easy time winning the first game of the present series from the Fort Waynes. Swaim was in the box for the Hoosiers and in spite of the fact that he was not feeling well pitched first-class ball. His support, however, was saffron-hued, every one of the quartet of infielders making errors, two each being credited to Glasscock, Babb and Hollingsworth. It was after errors were made that the Old Soldiers generally landed on "Cy's" curves and drove the runs over the rubber. Fort Wayne made enough hits to win the average game, but the high class fielding of the Daytons kept most of the Hoosiers on the bases after they had made hits. Here is the score:

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Fort Wayne and New Castle will play at Exhibition park Sunday and the Shamrocks and Blues will play at Robison park.

Fort Wayne is back in fourth place. Let us hope that the infielders bunched their errors in yesterday's game and will brace up and win the next two.

Brooklyn won a game yesterday after eight consecutive defeats. Bill Dahlen went back to third base and Hugh Jennings is playing shortstop.

Billy Niles is now manager-captain of the Wheelings.

Patsy Tebeau is watching Tim Flood and if the great second baseman keeps up his fine record he may find himself next season playing the bag around which "Cupid" Childs has coverted for so many years.

It is hard to understand how as poor a team as Torreyson had in Fort Wayne could have played such a wonderful game as they did with Toledo. The Furniture Makers might have won, too, had Collars been with them to bat out a run or two.

PFEIFFER & MOSES.

A WELL KNOWN GROCERY UNDER A NEW NAME.

E. S. Moses, of Decatur, Forms a Partnership With John N. Pfeiffer.

Pfeiffer & Moses is now the firm name of the well-known rocery and meat market of John N. Pfeiffer, No. 40-44 West Berry street. Mr. Pfeiffer having sold a half interest in the business to Mr. E. S. Moses, of Decatur, Ind. Mr. Moses comes to Fort Wayne with the highest recommendations of ability and financial standing, and withal is a most courteous and affable gentleman. Mr. Pfeiffer has conducted the grocery business alone at his present location for a number of years, and has built up for himself a reputation as a hustling, accommodating and strictly honorable young business man. But the strain of the rapidly growing business was too great for him to bear alone, hence the change. Under the new firm the stock will be maintained at the high standard which it has always borne, and will ge greatly increased.

When the Boys Git Back.

There ain't no use to make a fuss,
There ain't no call for keepin still;
There's good news in the air jest now,
And joy is ready for to spill.
They're goin to stop that eastern war,
And everybody knows that means
That soon we'll see the happy day
When the boys git back
from the Phillipeens.

We'll all go crazy then, I know,
But won't get fur off away, I guess
Because we'll all be 'bout the same—
Jest one big bunch of happiness.
And the boys may think we've had a taste
Of stuff that doesn't fit emsteens;
We'll make a thunderin lot of noise
When the boys git back
the Phillipeens

Guess mother'd better stay at home.
When Jim's tram comes, she's sure to cry
And mebbe faint. "I would make Jim feel
A little bad and know not why.
My eyes are weak that we'n't no tear—
I never cry. I hate such scenes;
Guess mother'd better go along
When the boys git back
the Phillipeens

It's right to cheer (and mebbe cry),
But we must see the hungry fed,
And there must be no friendless boys,
Jest make 'em see good times ahead.
Jest take the homeless home with us.
Where they'll forgit "cold sow and beans;"
We'll help the boys that did their part
When the boys git back
the Phillipeens.

A Redeeming Feature.

"I notice that a feminine highwayman aided in a recent Arizona hold up."

"How was she dressed?"

"Boots and corduroy trousers and a red shirt."

"That's all right. I was afraid she might have added to the horror of the affair by putting on a rainy day costume."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Placing the Blame.

"I read in the paper that you were hissed off the stage in Bremen."

"That's the fault of the theatrical agent!"

"How so?"

"The fellow ought to have known better than send an artist of my standing to a town made up of tradesmen!"—Unsere Gesellschaft.

A Point to Be Considered.

"I hope they won't buy that house for Dewey until he gets here and is ready to occupy it."

"Why?"

"Think of the repairs the relic hunters would make it necessary to put on the place if they got there first."—Chicago Times-Herald.

His Pet Aversion.

"Mr. Spoonamore, are you quite sure you love me for myself alone?"

"I am quite sure I do, dearest. I feel that if I could take you away to some place where I would never see that youngest brother of yours again I should be perfectly happy."—Chicago Tribune.

FUNSTON'S GREAT FEAT

How the Daring Kansan Crossed the Rio Grande.

GRAPHIC STORY OF THE BATTLE.

John T. McCutcheon Tells How the Colonel Won a Star on His Shoulder Straps For His Achievement. Daring Deed of Two Swimmers—A Desperate Running Fight.

Colonel Funston's plan of crossing the Rio Grande at night on rafts a mile west of the railroad bridge and flanking the insurgents with an enfilading fire was not carried out, owing to a few things which happened on April 27. Colonel Funston selected 120 men from the regiment to go with him. Twenty men were picked from each of Companies G, E, K and M and ten from each of Companies L, B, A and F.

Early the following morning the artillery was hurried forward from the Bagbag, says John T. McCutcheon, the Chicago Record's correspondent, writing from Manila under date of April 29. It was given out that the day would be employed in placing the new pieces and that the following day, April 28, would see the grand attack made.

Major Young got his three guns of the Utah battery placed under a nipa shack about 150 yards east of the freighthouse and about 400 yards from the insurgent bombproofs. The two Gatlings that came from the armored car were mounted at the same position—one on each side of the 3.2 inch guns. The Utah revolving cannon was moved down with Flemming on the river bank west of the track, and one of the 3.3 inch Sixth artillery guns was placed in the freighthouse.

The minute the insurgents saw these preparations they opened with their cannon and machine gun and all their infantry. It was afterward learned that Luna had 5,000 men with him—3,500 armed with rifles and 1,500 with bolos. As a consequence the work of advancing our artillery was hot and dangerous, and the American infantry was kept busy raking the tops of the insurgent trenches with volleys. The engagement became general, and Funston determined to try crossing the river in daylight, following the same lines as were laid out the night before.

About the same troops were selected and the line went down the river only about a third of a mile and in plain view from the bridge. From the freighthouse the farther bank could be seen, but not the American bank, for there was a slight bend in the river which shut from view the spot where Funston was to start across.

At a few minutes before 11 o'clock two men were seen from the freighthouse swimming out into the river toward the insurgent trenches. These men were White and Trembley of Company B—naked and unarmed and carrying a coil of rope, one end of which was secured on the southern bank. A fearful rifle fusillade at the same time was directed from the 120 men remaining in the trenches opposite, while the riflemen in the freighthouse raked the same position with a diagonal fire. From farther up toward the bridge the enemy was vainly trying to kill the two swimmers. Bullets were dropping in the water around them, and those who watched from the freighthouse were in a fever of suspense as the two men slowly neared the opposite shore. The noise at this time was deafening. The freighthouse was roaring like the sound of a barrel of exploding firecrackers, and the 3 inch gun, with its muzzle poked through a hole in the brick wall, was being fired as rapidly as possible. Major Young's three guns and the Gatlings were thundering off to the right. All of the Montana and Kansas men had crept up to where they could pour an effective and terrifying volley fire across the river.

After what seemed an age the two swimmers reached the insurgent bank and seemed to be looking around for something to which the rope might be attached. Their was absolutely nothing, and they crept cautiously up to the breastworks, where a strong upright post was standing. A line of insurgents was seen darting out of the trenches and running crouchingly off toward the railway. White and Trembley dropped down and waited. No sound came from behind the trench, and they threw a handful of earth over to see whether a movement would betray the presence of others. A few more natives hurriedly ran off to the right and disappeared in the trees, evidently terrified to find the Americans across the river. Then the rope was tied to the upright and the fire of our troops was turned farther up the river. Two more men with White and Trembley's rifles and clothes, as well as their own rifles, started across in a small canoe, but the canoe capsized, losing the extra clothes and rifles, and the occupants of the boat were barely able to reach the insurgent side safely.

Closely following this canoe came a raft with Colonel Funston and several soldiers. Their appearance drew a hot but wild fire from the insurgents, who were now apparently panic stricken at the thought of a flanking force closing in on them. The last two rafts were hurried over, and with this force, about 50 men in all, Colonel Funston began advancing along the beach, keeping up a steady enfilading fire, while the rafts were pulled back for the men remaining on the American shore. At the point where the little stream flows into the Rio Grande Funston stopped and fired into the insurgent trenches until he could see them getting out and retreating. This stream, though narrow, was deep and a crossing was hard to effect. The Americans moved up the bank, looking for a place to get over, when a strong force of insurgents, probably 200 in number, began a fierce fire on them from farther up the railway, where they had retreated. At the same time the insurgents opened up with a Maxim machine gun, and it seemed for a minute that the little group of Kansas men would be annihilated. Colonel Funston tells of this minute being the most exciting and desperate of the whole undertaking, and he confesses that his heart sank when he heard that machine gun. It was far to the right of the 200 men who were firing from up the railway and was probably posted in a culvert that ran under the railway track about 100 yards from the bridge. Under this cross fire Funston hurriedly drew his men back from the stream until they were protected in the clump of bamboos. The Maxim was being directed in a vertical arc, like a pumphandle, instead of horizontally, which would have been deadly to the Kansas men.

After the Maxim had ceased Funston and his men rushed again to the small stream and could see that the insurgents were fleeing wildly to the rear and following the line of the railway. A small banca was found, and the colonel, with Captain Orwig and eight soldiers, quickly crossed the stream and rushed like demons, yelling and shooting, up through the bombproofs on the heels of the stampeded insurgents. Simultaneously our soldiers began to edge across the bridge, using the railway of the footpath as a support. They were absolutely exposed, and their progress was slow, but nearly 100 were got across in this way. A number of us who had hurried forward from the freighthouse thought the fight was over, for the insurgents had all retreated, and there was only a scattering fire in front as an occasional blue coated figure darted into view along the track. Over on the left the Kansas men who had crossed the river were firing at the retreating insurgents. A mile and a half up the track was the railway station of Apalit, where a train with two locomotives was standing.

Then suddenly in the midst of all the relaxation and quiet that follow a brisk engagement went up the cry: "They're coming back! They're advancing in skirmish lines!"

The situation was extremely bad. Only about 300 soldiers were across the river. It would require a long time to get a big force across, and it would be a deadly thing to move a solid line of men along the exposed bridge after the insurgents had approached near enough to sweep it with their volleys. There then ensued a wild hurry and excitement. The troops on the south side could not fire without endangering those already across, and the same cause prevented the use of Gatlings or artillery.

Away over in the broad field to the left, about 2,000 yards from the bridge, was a long line of men in dark clothes, slowly advancing in skirmish formation. Behind the lines were men in squads, and along it, back and forth, rode an officer on a black horse, frantically giving orders. It was instantly assumed that the insurgents had discovered the weakness of the force that had flanked them and were going to attempt to regain possession of the bridge and its defenses before a greater force could be got across.

The insurgents were about 800 strong and were rapidly drawing nearer. From the fact that they wore dark khaki suits a momentary doubt arose whether or not they might be American soldiers who had crossed the river below in great numbers and were coming in toward the railway. This doubt was immediately dispelled by the insurgents opening fire on the Kansas men in the woods to the left and on the soldiers thronging across the bridge.

Generals MacArthur and Wheaton, with their excited staffs, came up to the bridge and instantly ordered every available man to get over the bridge as fast as possible and then sent orderlies flying away for re-enforcements. The insurgents who had retreated on the right of the track now began firing from the woods near the town of Apalit, and the bridge became a most uncomfortable spot. Still, the soldiers edged across, and as fast as they reached the other shore they were sent out to form a line beyond the bridge. The Kansas men in the woods who had crossed with Funston, but who had not come up to the railway, were in great danger of being cut off by the advancing line of insurgents, but they held their ground and greeted the approaching enemy with regular volleys.

It was apparent that the insurgents were rattled and were not eager to advance, for at every American volley the line would drop and the insurgent officer would ride back and forth urging them to advance. Twice they arose and each time broke up, some retreating, while the officers vainly endeavored to hold them firm. After several attempts the whole line crumbled and beat a hasty retreat to the left, disappearing in the woods. Already a skirmish line of Montanas was deploying in the ricefield on the right, and a line of Kansans was deploying on the left. As they marched forward toward the Apalit station a long running fight, as desperate and spirited as any action of the day, resulted. The insurgents gave way stubbornly before the crashing volleys that our soldiers poured into them. During this running fight, which covered over a mile, many men were shot, and a great many were overcome by the deadly heat that hung on the ricefields. About 40 insurgents were captured and a large number killed and wounded. Apalit was taken with but little effort, but the insurgents on leaving set fire to the town.

Trained to Wriggle.

From the slick way in which Aguinaldo's army slides around from jungle to swamp and back again it would seem as if every mother's son of them was born and trained up in the way in which he should go in the land of Eelocelo.—St. Louis Republic.

A wild man was captured in the woods, 50 miles north of Chippewa Falls, Wis., and placed in the county jail in that city recently. He is 60 years of age and has lost nearly all resemblance to a human being, says the Chicago Tribune. His hair and beard are two feet long, and his raiment consists of a solitary gunny sack wrapped around his body, and on his head a coonskin cap. It is impossible to hold conversation with him, as he has lost all knowledge of speech.

These services consist not only in consultation, examination and advice, but also of all minor surgical operations.

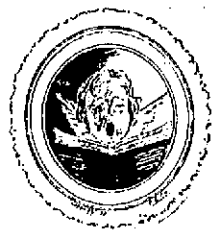
NATURAL COMFORT.



It is said that one can get used to almost anything if given time. It is certain that one has to get used to a plate in the mouth—even when most perfectly fitted—before it feels really comfortable. That points out briefly one reason why Crown and Bridge work is the most natural method of restoring decayed teeth and replacing lost ones. It takes away the necessity of wearing a plate—and getting used to it—and gives not only the most natural appearance, but the most natural comfort and efficiency to the wearer. The cost is little compared with this.

A dash of Fruit Juice on Grape Nuts Makes a Fetching Dish.

"You ought to advertise for people to eat fruit juice on Grape Nuts. I like them very much that way. I mix fruit in and eat a sort of fruit pudding, which is very delightful to my palate, and I find the food of a most nourishing character. Since its use I have been relieved of constipation." This was written by a man in Buffalo, N. Y.

A nice fruit juice, such as comes from canned peaches, pears, etc., makes a delicious dish of Grape Nuts, and another favorite is to make a pudding with sultana raisins, such as given in the directions on the package. When a man or woman once eats Grape Nuts he (or she) thereupon joins the Grape Nut army, and never regrets it.

With "Fighting Joe" Wheeler and General Lawton leading charges in the Philippines there will be a new order of hilarity for the rebels when the ball opens again.

Robert Bonner, whose death is announced today, attributed his marvelous success to generous and judicious advertising. He gave the readers of the New York Ledger the best and spent thousands of dollars telling them that it was the best.

On general principles, of course, right-thinking folks will be glad that the assassin who attempted the life of that royal scapegrace, ex-King Milan of Servia, failed in his purpose. However, this gladsome feeling will be greatly tempered by reflection that there is neither room nor use on earth for the titled debauchee.

The Muncie young man who has three times entered into arrangements for his marriage with a popular and pretty young lady and three times disappointed the bride-elect as well as the invited guests by failure to put in an appearance at the right time, can probably achieve success by making the sheriff master of ceremonies when the affair is billed to come off again, if the young lady's patience is not worn out.

What a meeting that must have been between Dreyfus and his wife at Rennes after five long years of separation, five long years of suffering, agony and suspense! Surely the whole world rejoiced in sympathy with this devoted and sorely-tried couple, and will rejoice still more when the husband shall be officially vindicated and the triumph of tortured innocence complete. Through all this long agony of shame and suffering Madame Dreyfus has stood by her husband with unshaken faith, unwavering fortitude and devoted love. She has shown heroic courage throughout the frightful ordeal which has left no trace of bitterness in her lofty soul. She bears no hatred toward her husband's persecutors, but, for herself, desires all the evil done to be forgiven and forgotten in his vindication. Here is an example of angelic Christian charity given by a Jewess that is touching and impressive to witness. But France has a duty to perform in this matter, and clearing the innocent is but part of it. She must punish the guilty and punish them condignly before justice can be satisfied. As for repairing the wrong done to Dreyfus, that is out of the question. It is irreparable.

Sir Julian Pauncefote thought it worth while to propose in the peace conference that the name of the body of arbitrators which that body hopes to establish should be changed from "tribunal" to "court," so that its title now is the "permanent court of arbitration." The change is in the interest of euphony, but the British commissioner probably was not thinking of that. He knew how much attention is given to phraseology in European diplomacy and that in its ears "court" has a more weighty sound than "tribunal." Consequently, "court" it is. Europe is better pleased and as for America, it doesn't care for the name, so there he the thing itself.

A FORMER CITIZEN DEAD.

Friends in this city have been notified of the death of C. W. Miller, which occurred at Northfield, Mass., June 18. Mr. Miller came to Fort Wayne in 1860, and resided here until 1895. Mrs. Miller died in 1891. There are three surviving children—Mrs. A. W. Kintz and Ethan A. Miller, of this city, and Mrs. C. R. Crouse, of Auburn.

DIRECTORS MEET TONIGHT.

The directors of the new Fort Wayne Commercial club will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in the offices of the Tri-State Building and Loan association. The purpose of the meeting is to select officers and complete the organization of the club.

HELLER WON EASILY.

PUSHED HIS WHITE FLYER ACROSS THE TAPE IN THE LEAD.

He Eclipsed All Previous Efforts On His Barnes White Flyer and Won All Three Races at Robinson Park—Call on Koehlinger.

The large crowd that witnessed the bicycle races at Robison park, Tuesday afternoon, noticed that the man who went across the tape first, in each of the three events, rode a beautiful white machine. The word went out and spread like wild fire that Lee Heller, the well known rider, was mounted on a Barnes White Flyer and was eclipsing all previous efforts made by him on other machines during his racing career. He showed his heels to the other contestants and won easily on the easy running Barnes. There are seventy-five other riders of this year's Barnes White Flyer in the city who will also vouch for its easy running qualities, durability, superior workmanship and general beauty. The best riders are all mounted on the Barnes, as they know what is the best.

It takes the best wheel to make the best showing on the street, road or track and for the prettiest, as well as the strongest constructed, yet the lightest machine in the market, all prospective buyers should visit H. G. Koehlinger, at 31 East Columbia street, and thoroughly inspect the popular Barnes White Flyer. In buying that machine you will never be dissatisfied and you can rest assured in having one you have the best.

Anybody who attended the play last night and went away dissatisfied, would certainly be a grumbler of the first water. "My Uncle From Japan" was the play, and the company fully sustained the reputation they had made on previous occasions. The comedy is very funny, and the Lennon Co. brought out all the fun in the piece. The specialties went big and Mr. Sanders made the hit of his life with his topical songs.—Elkhart Daily Truth.

J. F. Schell Declares His Plans Were of a Kind to Prosper—Cross-Examination.

The cross-examination of J. F. Schell in the bankruptcy actions yesterday developed a very animated tilt between the witness and the attorneys. The sharp discussion arose over the election of a new president at the time of Mr. Schell's retirement. Schell stated that he wanted to retire to become president of the state bank which was to have been organized, and for the additional reason that his health was impaired and he needed a rest. At this time, he said, Mr. O'Rourke sought the position of president and manager. The witness testified that some of the stockholders were opposed to Mr. O'Rourke's election, and Mr. Porter, in particular, declared he would not support him. Schell says he used his influence in Mr. O'Rourke's behalf and succeeded in having him elected. This Mr. O'Rourke flatly contradicted. He had previously stated that he was induced to accept the presidency reluctantly at the request of some of the directors who were clients of the law firm of Robertson & O'Rourke. Schell further testified that the directors who opposed the election of Mr. O'Rourke urged that he owned no stock in the association, and that Mr. O'Rourke agreed to take stock in order to qualify him for the position. Witness said that after a conversation with Mr. O'Rourke, C. E. Everett informed him (Schell) that Mr. O'Rourke was angered at the suggestion that he be made assistant manager; that he did not want that position; that he wanted to be president and manager; witness had never asked Mr. O'Rourke to be president; furthermore Mr. O'Rourke had asked to have the words "and manager" inserted after the word "president" in the records.

There was another sharp exchange of words over an alleged statement of Schell's to O'Rourke. The latter had stated that Schell informed him, at the time of the official change, that the total indebtedness of the company was $25,000. Schell insisted that he never made that statement; that on the contrary, he had informed Mr. O'Rourke and Mr. Keplinger at the time of the change secured the indebtedness was between $43,000 and $53,000. He says Mr. O'Rourke and Mr. Keplinger both stated then that if the indebtedness was not over $25,000 they could carry on the business for five years.

Schell was asked whether he had not informed Jackson Valentine, a week or two before the crash, that the company's debts were not over $300.

"I never said it," was the reply. "It was my impression that at the time of the change of presidency the total indebtedness of the company, secured and unsecured, was about $150,000. Of this the directors were individually responsible for between $40,000 and $50,000."

While the questions concerning the succession to the presidency were asking, Schell was asked:

"You kept your eyes open pretty much at that period, didn't you?"

"I hardly ever slept," was the reply. "It was my business to keep them open then. I needed to."

Questioned as to the methods alleged to have been in vogue of diverting money borrowed for the association to the use of individuals, Mr. Schell said:

"Any money borrowed on notes signed by the directors was for the J. F. Schell Loan and Investment company and was not placed to anyone's individual credit. It was all placed to the credit of the company."

When the question of the loan of $25,000 from the Colonial National bank of Cleveland came up Schell said that the note given the bank as security was dictated by Colonel Robertson. The association had its own form of notes, but the special one was made out so that the Cleveland bank people could have their choice of forms.

In his re-direct examination Schell told of the hopes of the directors, the method of subscribing stock and the conditions on which money was invested. Mr. Schell said the directors were to get 10 per cent. on their stock for a term of five years, in addition to their salaries.

At the time of the crash, he said, he valued his home at $9,500 and his farm at $3,000. He has lost all.

He told of the new bank which he was organizing and to promote which he had first decided to quit the presidency of the investment company. He said he had already had between $60,000 and $70,000 of stock pledged and subscriptions were still coming in. Articles of incorporation had been drawn up, signed by eighteen names, among them the names of the directors of the J. F. Schell Loan and Investment company. Schell was to have been president of the new bank, which he expected to get started within four months after he retired from the presidency.

Mr. Schell's testimony was given without the slightest hesitation at any point and at times he grew very emphatic. It is evident that he yet retains the sublimest confidence in the practicability of his plans and stated Thursday that if all had sustained him in the business he could have built it up into a substantial concern of monumental proportions.

HEARING THE DEFENSE.

Referee Chapin's examination of the proceedings in bankruptcy against the supposed directors of the Schell Loan and Investment company was resumed this morning and at noon the attorneys for the petitioners rested their case. The defense is being heard this afternoon.

Col. R. S. Robertson took the witness stand this morning and testified that he knew nothing of the actual condition of the company at the time the Cleveland loan was made; that in December last he advised them as to articles of association for a new bank but had no further conferences with them; that just prior to the examination of the books by Messrs. Keplinger, O'Rourke and Everett, Schell came to his office and in the presence of Linden declared that the company did not owe a dollar that it did not have assets to pay, and said if they had $8,000 in cash at that time it would pay all; that as the investigation proceeded they would inform Schell as to what they found; soon found a shortage of $20,000 to $25,000 of unsecured debts; they would telephone to Schell at his home and his invariable response was: "That is so; I overlooked that, but that is all there is." Witness said the presidency was not sought by Mr. O'Rourke and he did not solicit any men to vote for him. Linden suggested that he (Robertson) take the presidency, but he declined to do it. Mr. Robertson denied any knowledge of an attempt to alienate the confidence or affection of these directors from Schell, but defended him in more than one direction.

George Wilhelm, a street grading contractor, testified that for two years past Hiram Porter has been connected with him in making these contracts.

Kites to Unveil a Statue.

When the statue of Benjamin Franklin in front of the Philadelphia postoffice is unveiled numerous kites of huge size will be attached to the canvas covering of the statue and through the agency of these kites and by means of intricate electrical appliances the statue will be unveiled without any apparent human or mechanical assistance. Justus C. Strawbridge, who bears the entire cost of the statue, $17,200, and will present it to the city, conceived the idea several years ago at a dinner, after listening to a speech in which it was pointed out that there was no memorial bronze to Franklin in that city.

Butterflies.

Every one has seen the little yellow butterflies that settle down in swarms upon the country roads in the summer time, but very few of our little friends know in what great families they travel nor what great distances they go. Flocks of them have been seen fluttering overhead, all going in the same direction, that covered 16 miles and took three days in passing, and they have been seen far out at sea, where they fairly cover the decks and rigging of the ships.

A Severe Setback.

"No, it will be several Sundays before I care to hear Rev. Mr. Dakter preach." "Why so?" "He has just returned from a fishing trip and it will take him that long to get back his veracity."

Easy to Solve.

Teacher (to new scholar)—Now, Mary, I'll give you a sum. Supposing that your father owed the butcher $13.70, $11.13 to the baker, $27.08 to the coal merchant, $15.10 to the landlord—Mary (confidently)—We should move."—Boston Globe.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, July 7.—Buoyant strength in Pennsylvania and New York Central lifted the market at the opening the former stock jumping 2½c on buying of 2,800 shares and the latter 1½c on 2,000 shares, due to the rumored combination of the two roads.

The general railroad list responded rather feebly and showed a downward tendency after the opening, Burlington dropping ½c. Sugar, Manhattan and some of the other industrial specialties advanced about a point or over.

The opening demand for Pennsylvania and New York Central was soon satisfied and yesterday's realizing was resumed. The unloading process was pursued with vigor, but the general demand being light, values melted away rapidly as the offerings came out.

Sugar, Brooklyn Transit, Metropolitan Street Railway, Tennessee Coal, Manhattan and the Tobacco stocks dipped from 1c to 2½c.

Among the railways Pennsylvania, New York Central and the grangers lost in the neighborhood of a point. Towards 11 o'clock prices hardened and there were some good recoveries.

An additional impulse to covering operations was given by the strength of Manhattan, which bounded up 2½c to $1.21. The advance in the general list, however, was not long retained, realizing in the standard stocks and liquidation in Sugar wiping out most of the recoveries.

Sales to noon, 280,411 shares.

Price changes of bonds were slightly mixed and the demand small.

The market was weighted with some realizing sales late in the day and was sustained by the large buying of Atchison preferred, which rose to 61½c.

Colorado fuel jumped 2½c from the lowest. The closing was moderately active and firm at net gains in nearly all cases.

ENTERPRISE IN CUBA.

Inspector Letherman Tells of Its People and Recent Changes.

SPANIARDS KEEN BUSINESS MEN.

New Postal Service in in Fine Working Trim—Major Rathbone Very Popular With Cubans—Natives Wanted Their Cockfights—The Way the People Work.

Mr. Lawrence Letherman, one of the popular and efficient attaches of the United States postal inspector's office in Cincinnati, is welcomed back from a several months' official sojourn in Cuba. He went over to the island in February, when Major Rathbone began organizing the postal system and needed the assistance of experienced men in each branch of the service. Mr. Letherman was in Havana for several months, but in the line of work he visited nearly every province and city in the island. He speaks very interestingly of Cuban scenes and experiences.

"When we first got to Havana," he said to a Cincinnati Commercial Tribune reporter recently, "the streets were filthy beyond description. The drainage there is or was over the street surface and in open ditches or gutters. It was simply terrible. It's the fashion largely to include the stable in the residence, and it is a common thing to see homes or houses with the lower floor or basement given up to the horses and the upper floor occupied by the family. You can imagine the result when you remember that the stable drainage flowed directly out on the street. General Ludlow's chief work has been in changing the conditions caused by such a system. It has been an awful job to get matters into proper and decent shape, but the sewer building is doing it.

"What riled the natives most of all, though, was the general's order stopping bullfighting and cockfighting. These were their pet sports, and they were very much huffed at being deprived of them. The general also stopped the running about of naked children in the streets. He required that they should be dressed.

"The great majority of the people are blacks. The native Cubans are small fellows and quite handsome in appearance. They are a pleasure loving people and give up a large share of their time to sport and pastime. They are not thrifty or businesslike, and the masses are rude and ignorant as a general thing.

"The Spaniards are the principal business men down there. They are splendid business men too. Yes, I know it sounds odd to hear that, but that's the way it is. The sharpest set of bargain drivers or business men that we have in Cincinnati or anywhere else would not be able to get ahead of the Spanish business men. They had to be sharp to provide all the taxes that their own government and officials were constantly extorting from them. There was nothing that escaped the tax gatherers. Any man who had a hotel had to pay a tax for every guest that registered. Taxes went as high sometimes as 50 per cent of the value of the things taxed. The officials robbed the Spanish business men, and the latter had to recoup themselves however they could. The Spaniards own the greater part of the land and business. They are for annexation to the United States and fear their property will be confiscated by the Cubans if they get control.

"The Cubans have their own way of working. They are early risers. They begin at 6 o'clock in the morning and keep on till 11. Then they take their siesta, or rest, till 3, during the hottest part of the day. Then they start in again. The climate is not so trying. In the time I was there there was not a night that a blanket did not feel comfortable to sleep under.

"The Americans were thick about February and March. In May they began getting away as fast as they could. They had the yellow fever scare. The people eat very little meat. At Cienfuegos I met the Rev. Sam Small, the evangelist, formerly with Rev. Sam Jones. Mr. Small is principal of a school in that town and seemed greatly satisfied with his new location and surroundings.

"Cuba now has a good postal service. When the Spaniards were running the government, every time a letter regularly stamped came to a man from a foreign country he had to pay 3 cents before the carrier would deliver it. To business men who got 300 or 400 letters a day this was a big burden. Now they get their letters just as any person or firm in the United States gets them. They are pleased, of course. There are postoffices in every town and money order facilities in all the larger towns. The plan has been to put good Cubans in charge of these offices wherever it can be done. Major Rathbone has everything in fine working order, and both he and Mrs. Rathbone are very popular with the Cubans and the business people.

"Cuba has everything to make it the garden spot of America," said Mr. Letherman in conclusion, "and under American control it is bound to blossom as the rose."

The Relapse.

"Let me see," said Dr. Wise, "what is your occupation?"

"I am one of the street cleaning gang, sir."

WIRELESS TELEPHONY.

An Invention to Prevent Collisions at Sea.

WORK OF A SICILIAN PROFESSOR.

Apparatus Will Announce a Ship's Approach—Officers on Different Vessels Able to Talk to Each Other. Sounds Transmitted by the Water and Taken Up by Telephones.

An invention recently made by an Italian scientist is aimed to prevent collisions at sea and renders submarine boats useless for hostile operations.

The invention is known as "wireless telephony," and is intended to enable officers on different ships to talk with each other without the aid of wires. Commander Richardson Clover, chief of the office of naval intelligence, said the other day that the invention has received considerable attention abroad, and contains elements of success. It is likely that the navy department, according to a Washington dispatch to the New York Herald, will carefully look into the matter with a view to the use of the invention in the American naval service.

Experiments have been made on the Italian gunboat Scilla, in the gulf of Genoa, in presence of scientists and naval experts. The inventor is a Sicilian professor, Mario Russo d'Asar. Wireless telephony announces in the darkness of the night or a dense fog the approach of ships, torpedo boats and even of the invisible submarine boat, indicates their direction and places the men on watch on guard.

Concerning the invention and the trials which have been made this translation of an article in L'Italia Marinara, which has been confirmed by official reports, has been made:

"It is well known that transmissibility of sounds is in direct ratio to the density of the means through which they are transmitted. It is equally well known that water is an excellent means for transmitting sounds to a distance.

"It has been noticed that a bather, immersed in water, hears with great distinctness the sound of a steamer's engine in motion, because the water in which the latter is immersed is in a special state of vibration, owing to the movement of the engine and screw actuated thereby.

"From these principles the inventor derived the conclusion that if the air could seize these vibrations of sound an instrument of great sensibility functioning below water would be susceptible of seizing them at a greater distance and with greater distinctness, and became convinced that a telephone apparatus should be the point of departure for obtaining the practical means of signaling between two vessels. The water would take the place of the wires. It was necessary first of all to construct a sound receiver which would perform the functions of the ear below the surface of the water, then another apparatus that would increase the sounds received and indicate the direction whence they came.

"One part of the telephone apparatus is placed on the conning bridge, and the other is secured to the ship's side and immersed in the water, from which it receives the vibrations produced by the engine in motion of another vessel and transmits them in increased volume to the telephone apparatus.

"The submarine receiver is a kind of box secured to the hull with a number of depressions, so as to receive the sounds from all directions. From the center of each of these an electric wire leads to the telephone, which latter contains an ingenious mechanism based on Edison's well known scientific principles.

"A dial plate on a board is divided into two parts corresponding to the two sides of the ship. Two hands indicate the direction of the steamer signaled. A system of bells at the upper part of the dial plate and one of the receivers on the board indicates by sound with the greatest distinctness the rhythm of the screw of the distant vessel.

"When coming within seven kilometers of a steamer the hand of the telephone turns and indicates the direction of the vessel and follows its route, while the bell and receiver beat simultaneously the cadence of the distant screw. The noises of the vessel on which the apparatus of the vessel is located cause no disturbance, because, owing to the special construction of the submarine receiver, they are not transmitted."

Woman Finds Wealth.

Miss Frankie Florman of Black Hills, S. D., has discovered what Atlin mining men regard as an immense quartz mine. The vein is from 200 to 600 feet in width and is intersected in its course by Atlin City. It has been traced over three-quarters of a mile. Miss Florman's father is a mine expert, and numerous assays of the ore which he recently made disclosed values running from $8 to $27 per ton on the surface, says the Chicago Record. Mining Expert Frank Keffer and William Partridge have bonded the property for $200,000. Partridge left Tacoma recently for London to place it on the market there.

THE PEOPLE'S STORE.

DEATH OF ROBERT BONNER.

THE END COMES TO THE NOTED PUBLISHER.

Famous as an Editor, a Churchman, a Philantbropist and Lover of Fine Horses.

New York, July 7.—Robert Bonner, editor, churchman and lover of fine horses, died at his home, 8 West Fifty-sixth street, at 7:40 o'clock last night. He was seventy-eight years old. There was no organic trouble, and death was due, his physicians say, to the shock of two great sorrows—the death of his eldest son, Andrew Allen Bonner, from pneumonia, on December 27 last, and of his pastor, Rev. Dr. John Hall, to whom he was deeply attached and one of whose warmest supporters he had been through all the troubles which led to Dr. Hall's final retirement from the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church.

Without these bereavements, the doctors say, there was no reason why he should not have lived for many years, for his life had always been one of frugal regularity. He began to decline with the death of his son, and as long ago as March he told his remaining children that his own time had come. He had been confined to his bed only eight days and a week ago Tuesday he was out driving.

The end came peacefully and painlessly. Mr. Bonner lost consciousness early in the morning and did not again rally. His three surviving children were about his bedside when his eyes closed for the last time.

Mr. Bonner began life in a printing office at Hartford, Conn., working twelve hours a day and his salary for the whole of the first year was $25 in cash, his board and clothing being included. The second year he received $35 and the third year $45. A year later he had completed his apprenticeship and went to New York where he secured a position, saving in his first year $70, which was deposited in a bank, earning $3.50 interest.

In 1850 young Bonner saw in what was then a little sheet called the Merchants' Ledger great possibilities and he bought it at a small figure. His first ambition was to increase the circulation, and he saw the inclination of the reading public turn to stories. He secured the services of Miss Fannie Fern, then the most popular woman writer of the time, paying her $1,000 for a ten-column story. The whole newspaper world told of the extravagance and Mr. Bonner, often counted the value of the advertising thus gained at $50,000. He then branched out, enlarged the paper, and engaged new and noed authors, notable among whom was Henry Ward Beecher, to whom he paid $30,000 for a single novel. Edward Everett was also a contributor and between the two great men they soon made the Ledger the most talked of newspaper in America.

Mr. Bonner was a student of advertising and spent vast sums in letting the public know the merits of the Ledger. "One of the great secrets of success," said Mr. Bonner once, "is to first have a good thing, and then advertise it, so that people cannot help knowing that you have it."

Robert Bonner was a great admirer of horse flesh and was noted as the owner of Sunol and Maud S., two of the fastest horses of their time, the latter setting a mark which stood for many years in the trotting world. He also owned a number of other fast horses, but was never given to campaigning them on the race tracks, rather being averse to racing.

PENNSYLVANIA AND NEW YORK CENTRAL SEPARATE.

REPORTED DEAL A CANARD

GOTTEN UP BY ENTERPRISING CORRESPONDENT.

WILL BUILD DOUBLE TRACK

WEST END OF FORT WAYNE LINE TO BE IMPROVED

Philadelphia, Pa., July 7.—A prominent official close to Pres. A. J. Cassatt, of the Pennsylvania railroad, today denied the published statement that the Pennsylvania and the New York Central railroads had entered a compact by which the two systems had practically become one. To a reporter of the Associated Press he said:

"The story is too absurd to receive any consideration. There has never been any thought of consolidating the two systems. The statement is simply a rehash of a story published some time ago. The New York Central is practically a family railroad, owned by the Vanderbilts, while there are 30,000 stockholders in the Pennsylvania railroad. The relations of the two companies are pleasant, but as the Pennsylvania railroad is competing with the New York Central for western traffic the interests of the two roads are not compatible, and consequently a consolidation or amalgamation would be out of the question."

Regarding Mr. Cassatt's presence at the Boston and Albany lease meeting of the New York Central directors, the official said: "Mr. Cassatt made a personal call on President Calloway, of the New York Central, on that day, but he was not present during the meeting of the board of directors."

He ridiculed the idea that Mr. Vanderbilt was instrumental in securing President Cassatt's appointment and denied the statement that Mr. Vanderbilt is the largest stockholder in the Pennsylvania railroad.

CALLOWAY DON'T BELIEVE IT.

New York, July 7.—Concerning the report that the New York Central system and the Pennsylvania railway system were to be merged, S. B. Calloway, president of the New York Central railway company, said today that the first he had heard of the report was through a newspaper article. He had absolutely nothing to say in regard to it.

Later in the day President Calloway issued this statement: "There is no truth in the report. Mr. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, was not present at any meeting of the New York Central board of directors. His presence in the city at the time the New York Central directors met to ratify the Boston and Albany lease was simply a coincidence."

PENNSYLVANIA MEN HONORED.

Three Pennsylvania officials will read papers at the international railroad congress at Paris next year. General Manager L. F. Loree will discuss the question of "Economical Size of Goods, Trucks or Capacity of Freight Cars;" Chemist Charles B. Dudley will read an article on "Use of Steel and Ingot Iron in Construction of Locomotives and Rolling Stock," and Mechanical Engineer Alex S. Vogt will discourse upon the subject of "Locomotives for Trains Run at a Very High Speed." Frank Thomson, late president of the Pennsylvania road, was one of the delegates selected by Americans to represent them in the congress. The vacancy caused by his death has not yet been filled.

SOLD TO COMMITTEE.

Eau Clair, Wis., July 7.—The Wisconsin Central railroad was sold to the reorganization committee today for $7,300,000.

DYNAMO SHIPMENT.

The Fort Wayne Electric works will put in a lighting plant at Springfield, Ill., and yesterday sent one of the dynamos, a 1,500-light incadescent machine, to that city. A millwright will leave for that city Monday to install the machinery.

HEAVY MOVEMENT OF COAL.

A Pittsburg paper says at present the coal carrying roads are having tremendous traffic. The Pittsburg and Lake Erie is doing the heaviest business in its history and it is the same with the Pennsylvania lines and the Pittsburg and Western, where every car and locomotive fit for use is in service. On Sunday the Panhandle sent over 300 cars of coal to the Sheridan yards and the Ohio connecting railroad crews were kept busy hauling trains over the Fort Wayne.

SMASH-UP AT DELPHOS.

There was an exciting crossing accident at Delphos, O., yesterday. A Pittsburg train crew was doing some switching and had just "kicked" a couple cars down the track in time to obstruct the crossing of the Clover Leaf, down which a freight train was bearing at the rate of fifteen miles an hour. The engine struck the Pennsylvania car midway and threw it over against the little telegraph and agent's building of the Clover Leaf, upsetting it. The other Pennsylvania car struck the Clover Leaf engine, dismantling it completely and throwing it from the rails. The engine crew saw that a collision was inevitable and jumped from the cab, escaping with a few slight bruises. Art. Hedrick, Clover Leaf operator, and Charles Clark, freight house attache, were in the station house at the time of the collision and were tumbled about roughly, but escaped injury. They were taken out of the building through one of the windows, both being so badly frightened as to render them almost helpless. The loss is considerable.

LARGEST IN ITS HISTORY.

The Pittsburg machine shop now has the largest force of workmen in its history. If the works could accommodate more men still further additions would probably be made, but the limit has been reached and no more mechanics will be hired at present. The shop pay rolls for the summer months of 1899 will be greater than for any similar period of former years. Some of the departments are running thirteen hours per day.

WILL DOUBLE TRACK.

The Pennsylvania company is about to commence the work of extending the second track on the western division of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago road. Three stretches of double track will be laid this summer, viz.: From Dunkirk to Lafayette, O.; from Elida, O. to Adams, Ind., and from Winslow to Wanatah, Ind., making a total of new track of sixty-six miles and a total of double track on the western division of 160 miles out of 280. This improvement will be pushed as rapidly as possible in order to complete it before navigation closes when freight business on the line will increase. It will furnish employment to hundreds of men and will place a lot of money in circulation in the territory through which the improvements extend. Mr. Thomas Rodd, the company's chief engineer, has just completed an inspection of the line and as a result of his recommendation the work is to be accomplished. He was accompanied on the trip by Superintendent J. B. McKim and Civil Engineer E. G. Ericson.

N. R. Messick and R. B. Date, machinists, have arrived from St. Louis to take positions in the Wabash shops. C. F. Eichel also commenced work in that shop this morning. He will learn the boiler trade.

The net earnings of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul for the year are estimated at $13,750,000, and the increase in net over 1897-1898 about $1,300,000. Last year a surplus of $1,294,994, was carried over.

Passenger Conductor Cliff Ellenwood, of the Pittsburg, is entertaining his cousin, Frank Ellenwood, of Marietta, Ohio. The young man is en route to California, to re-enter the Leland Stanford university to resume his studies.

The Bass works shipped a big heater to the Fort Wayne Gas company's pumping station, near Bluffton, yesterday. The gas people are preparing to increase the flow of gas and avert, if possible, a shortage in the supply next winter.

George Smith, foreman of the Wabash machine shop, now wears a beautiful watch charm that was presented to him by the men employed in the shops of the Lima Northern road at Tecumseh, Mich., of which Mr. Smith was the general foreman.

The electric works will be closed at 11 o'clock tomorrow in order that the employes can have time to go home and prepare for going to the park at 1:30 o'clock, the appointed time for departure. The men and those who will participate with them in the festivities at Robison park tomorrow anticipate a good time.

The Bluffton News says: "C. W. Buck, of Fort Wayne, is in the city meeting old friends. Mr. Buck was prominently connected with the opening of the Lake Erie and Western railroad. He was conductor on the first train that ever ran through Bluffton in 1870. He finds very few familiar faces here of those who were here thirty years ago."

An understanding has been reached between the receivers of the Kansas, City, Pittsburg and Gulf road and the Kountz Bros., who control the deep water outlet at Sabine Pass. As a result of recent conferences the Kountz interests have promised to build a terminal railway from Port Arthur to the docks, at Sabine City, and the receivers have said that they will make traffic arrangements with them.

MARIE SEYMOUR BISSELL,
ONE OF NEW YORK'S LEADING TEACHERS.

Pays High Tribute to the Artistic Qualities of the Packard Piano.

New York, June 28th, '99.
Fort Wayne Organ Co.:
Dear Sirs:—It gives me great pleasure to tell you that the Packard Piano, which I used at my concert in Mendelssohn hall May 11th gave me and my pupils the greatest satisfaction. The quality of tone was all that could be desired—the action perfect. The accompaniments I was obliged to play required the most delicate response from the instrument, a quality I find lacking in most of the pianos heretofore used, but your instrument meets every requirement. Some of my advanced pupils who are before the public in concert work, including Grace Preston, contralto of the Nordica Concert Co. last season; Sarah King Peck, one of New York's excellent artists; Miss Agnes Forbes, vocal teacher at Mrs. Hazen's seminary at Pelham Manor, and several others, were most enthusiastic in their praise of your piano. The principal feature which pleased us all was the wonderful support it gave to the voice, the quality being so full and rich that it lent an inspiration to the artist. I feel I cannot praise it too highly and hope I may have one in my studio next season.
Very truly yours,
Marie S. Bissell,
Vocal Instructor.

Finesse.

She did not poison her husband, although he was 73 years old, while she was but 18. She was far too clever for that. Instead she kissed his brow and asked him would he not, for her sake, try to live to be 100. Of course he could not refuse. The effort to live to be 100 was at his advanced age necessarily fatal, and the young wife came at once into all his property.—Detroit Journal.
